

Founda on Judge's Bench.
Ivins objected because no name was being given for the superintendent of public works. Bowers said:
"I don't want Mr. Ivins to act this way. He is trying to interrupt the continuity of this testimony."
"I can't stop this witness' contin-

ing," replied Ives while the crowd laughed.

"Well," Col. Roosevelt went on, the man was Francis Hendricks at Syracuse. I told Mr. Barnes I didn't intend any man should say when I should appoint."

As the Colonel said this his jaw squared and he pounded on the square of his bench. He continued:

"Mr. Barnes said in reply that Senator Platt was right and the leader of an organization must have complete control of it."

"It was in 1902 that I told Mr. Barnes my views of matters were the same as they always were. I told Mr. Barnes he had my sympathy but that Gov. Hughes must be independent. I referred to my talks and letters to Senator Platt. Mr. Barnes said the organization had to be disbanded and that Gov. Hughes had to be broken down the organization and that he would oppose Gov. Hughes' re-nomination."

On motion of Ives that part of Col. Roosevelt's testimony referring to Hughes was stricken from the record.

"In 1902 did you discuss legislation at Albany with Mr. Barnes?" asked Bowers.

"Yes," replied the witness. "Mr. Barnes spoke with me generally on the subject of legislation. He said Gov. Hughes was favoring legislation against the interests of the organization and that the Democratic organization was backing up the Republican Gov. Hughes."

"Barnes' Control of Party."

"Mr. Barnes said he and his friends had control of the party. He didn't think he, himself, was personally in control. He said that Mr. Hughes was not like the control away from those in whom it was invested."

"After my return from Africa I had correspondence with Mr. Barnes over rule by the bosses. It (correspondence) was also on the subject of legislation. A letter from Barnes to Roosevelt was offered in evidence. It was dated from the Albany Journal office and in part read:

"Ever since he has been Governor, Mr. Hughes has endeavored through his speeches and his attitude to arouse resentment in every locality against those who have been doing the political work of the Republican party. Some of those men are the best and most unselfish of men. Some of them are the meanest and most selfish of men."

"It was a grave mistake to allow down what it was my duty to resist, because if I am to remain in the leadership of this country, that leadership must be satisfactory to the Republican people of the country. I can not be exploited as a machine for the purpose of a patronage broker without resisting the charge to the best of my strength."

"I never could subscribe to the doctrine advanced by the Governor, which was this: Disregard with him mean that he was a machine."

Direct Nominations.

"What I am most deeply interested in is this subject of direct nominations, which, if ever adopted by this State, will lead to untold evils in public life and place there the cheapest kind of citizenship."

"Of course, the newspapers will urge you to make an effort to have the State convention adopt a direct nomination plan. It is my duty to resist."

"Of course you realize that those who oppose that proposal in principle will be compelled to contest it."

"The men with whom I have been co-operating will never relinquish their fight against the political machine. I will not favor every possible reform to our primary system so that people will be encouraged to go to primaries for a fair shake there."

Direct Primaries Question.

"The so-called question of direct primaries does not exist. It is purely pro-Hughes sentiment and has nothing to do with the merits of the proposal. Gov. Hughes advocated the plan he did purely to make a name, not believing that he had the courage or the political strength to back up his opinions."

"Direct nominations are an invitation to party discord, but their evil could be minimized by the holding of unofficial primaries and unofficial conventions which would unquestionably be done."

"The idea of getting rid of bosses is absurd, so long as you have party government."

"I sincerely hope and trust that you will not become convinced in any way that it will force an issue."

Roosevelt Testifies Barnes Urged Him Not to Antagonize Big Business

Roosevelt yesterday testified that Barnes had urged him to antagonize big business men of large business who contributed to both the Democratic and Republican parties, so that they would be protected.

Barnes told him, Col. Roosevelt swore, that it was essential to protect his business interests, because unless they were protected, they would not make contributions to the party falling to protect them, and that without such contributions it was impossible to carry on the organization. Without opposition leaders and bosses, the former President quoted Barnes as saying, party government would be impossible.

Col. Roosevelt also quoted Barnes as telling him that "the people are not fit to govern themselves. They have got to be governed by the party organization and you cannot run an organization, you cannot have leaders, unless you have money."

Due at the Saratoga convention on this question. We should have a primary plank of the strongest possible kind to protect voters and give them every opportunity to express themselves in conventions.

"When nominations are made they should be final. If the people do not like them they can beat them at the polls, but the members of a party should have a chance prior to the primaries and conventions to exercise their judgment and express their will."

Conversations With Senators.

Despite the ruling of the court, Justice Andrews allowed Col. Roosevelt to tell of conversations with some Senators, Hinman, Davenport, Newcomb and others, about race-track and other legislation. Some of these men told him, he said, that Barnes at first had no opposition to race-track legislation, but that later opposition developed.

"It was at that time I learned that Senator Grattan had expressed his opposition of the legislation, but that he changed his mind after talking with Mr. Barnes. Mr. Grattan pleaded with Mr. Barnes to allow him to vote as he wanted, but I was told he said Mr. Barnes ordered him to vote oppositely and he was forced to do so. Senator Grattan's one vote defeated the bill. Senator Grattan represented Mr. Barnes' district."

Col. Roosevelt told the story of his conversation with Senators Hinman and Davenport.

14 Representatives and 14 Democrats.

"I was told that on one occasion when the question of direct primaries came up in the State Senate the Republican leader asked for an adjournment. He asked the Republican Senators to go into a nearby room for a conference. The Democratic leader then told the Democratic Senators to meet in an adjoining room. Senator Davenport said he looked in the room occupied by the Republicans and saw Mr. Barnes there in conference with the Senators, although he was not a member of the Legislature. Later the Democrats and Republicans came out and went into the Senate chamber. Fourteen Democrats and 14 Republicans voted for the measure and it went through. The measure had been opposed by Gov. Hughes."

"We all the Republican Senators in that room," said Ives.

"Oh, no," replied the witness. "Mr. Davenport only saw the Barnes Republican Senators, as he termed them."

Col. Roosevelt said: The Murphy Democrats, who were in the next room to the Barnes Republicans, were under the leadership of Senator Grady."

"Did you talk to Senator Davenport about Senator John P. Aldrich?"

"Yes," replied the witness.

Staps One Hand on the Other.

"Mr. Barnes said to me, 'Staps one hand on the other. Mr. Newcomb or Mr. Davenport,'" said Col. Roosevelt, "told me that Senator Aldrich had been selected for President pro tem of the Senate by the machine Republicans."

There was opposition to the machine Republicans by other Republicans so the machine Republicans were unable to control a sufficient vote to elect Aldrich. Then Senator Newcomb told me the machine Democrats co-operated with the machine Republicans in order to elect Aldrich."

"And in the position Aldrich was elected to by Tammany Democrats he was the official leader of the Republican party in this State."

While Col. Roosevelt gave his testimony he stamped one hand upon the other every second or so and leaned forward in his chair toward the jury box. The spectators, the jury and lawyers roared with laughter when Col. Roosevelt said Tammany men had abandoned Aldrich, the official Republican leader, after order was restored a recess was taken.

Col. Roosevelt was ready to continue his testimony at the afternoon session of court.

The afternoon session Bowers began by asking the witness to continue his testimony about Aldrich.

"Senator Newcomb told me," said Col. Roosevelt, "that the combination between the machine Democrats and Barnes Republicans which resulted in the election of Aldrich was the result of early stages of the impeachment proceedings against Senator Aldrich which resulted in his being thrown out of the Senate. It was told that after all the organization men had abandoned Aldrich, Senator Grady made a speech in his behalf."

For both sides, offered suggestions and one point with Justice William S. Andrews, presiding, whom he addressed as "Judge." He was entirely at his ease in the witness chair. He stretched his arms over the back of his chair, crossed one leg over the other and, after adjusting his glasses from time to time.

He cut all his words off shortly, except when he mentioned the name of Barnes. He drew out the name of the opponent and put a peculiar pronunciation upon the last syllable.

Barnes himself appeared to be very much interested in the first part of Col. Roosevelt's testimony. As it progressed, however, the plaintiff in the action seemed to lose interest and he first retired from a seat close to the witness stand to one farther away and then he left the room.

"Col. Roosevelt," asked Attorney Bowers of the former President's counsel, "did you tell Barnes you intended to send a message to the Legislature advocating the passage of the franchise tax bill?"

"I don't just remember," replied the witness. "After the bill was passed Barnes urged me to follow Senator Platt's advice and refuse to sign the franchise bill. Barnes said he made the request in the interests of the general public. He also asked me not to back the bill."

"Did Mr. Barnes ever talk to you about reappointing Louis F. Payne as Superintendent of Insurance?" Bowers asked.

"Yes," the witness replied. "He talked to me several times about Payne in the executive mansion and other places. I was contemplating the removal of Mr. Payne and Mr. Barnes was opposed to that. So was Senator Platt. Mr. Barnes told me he was against Mr. Payne and said he had advised Mr. Platt not to insist upon Mr. Payne. But he said that Mr. Platt was the head of the organization."

Statement on Which Barnes Sued; Main Points in T. R.'s Testimony

The main points of Col. Roosevelt's testimony yesterday were substantially as follows:

That at numerous times while he was Governor, from Jan. 1, 1899, until Jan. 1, 1901, he had conversations with Barnes, who was then Boss Platt's lieutenant, concerning measures he was anxious to have put through the Legislature.

That as Governor he desired to do things which Senator Platt objected to.

That Barnes had told him Senator Platt objected to the franchise tax bill because certain business men of great power in New York would be unfavorably affected and that Barnes said Senator Platt was right.

Barnes had told him that these financial powers had contributed to both parties, among the heaviest being Robert Pruyn and Anthony N. Brady, who were connected with electric power.

That Barnes had told him that Anthony N. Brady contributed, not as a matter of politics, but as a matter of business, and it was necessary to keep the Republican conservative party or contributions would go to the Democratic party.

That he had told Barnes that any corporations or individuals expecting protection as a reward for their contributions would "get left" while he was Governor.

That Speaker Nixon of the Assembly had told him that Mr. Payne stood as Governor, had sent to the Legislature on the first franchise tax bill, and that Barnes had told him (Roosevelt) that he was foolish to expect the Speaker and Mr. Aldrich to support the bill.

That Barnes, in two or three conversations, justified the practice of men contributing to an opposition party or to both parties.

That Barnes, coming from Platt, had told him that "Louis" (Payne) should not be displaced as superintendent of the organization. Mr. Barnes said that Mr. Platt's reasons for wanting Mr. Payne were that Mr. Payne stood in the good graces of men who were high up in business affairs.

Talked With Platt About Payne.

"I had a talk with Senator Platt, and he told me I would be beaten on confirmation of any man I might decide upon to take Mr. Payne's place. I told that to Mr. Barnes, and he said Senator Platt was right, and that Payne must be reappointed. Then I made an investigation and I found that what Mr. Barnes and Senator Platt had said apparently was true."

"Mr. Barnes stated," continued the Colonel, "that it was essential to protect the big business interests because they were protected they would make contributions to the party falling to protect them; that without such contributions it was impossible to carry on the organization and that without organization we leaders, without money, would be afraid of my falling to understand your position. I am confident that whatever course you may follow is one that you believe to be the wise and proper course to take. When Agent Andrews told me requesting me to act in the particular manner under discussion I simply answered that I had not attempted to interfere one way or the other and would not attempt to interfere one way or the other as regards any legislation at Albany."

When the whole trouble is over do come down here and let me go over the general political situation with you.

Good Luck Always.

"I believe this was conversation over the franchise tax bill, but in substance was repeated to me by Mr. Barnes on at least a dozen other occasions."

Col. Roosevelt said that in 1899 and in 1900 Barnes was Surveyor of the Port at Albany, a Federal office. He was appointed by President McKinley and Roosevelt retained him. He added that he was entirely friendly with Barnes at that time, as he looked forward to him developing into the same kind of a leader as his grandfather, Thurlow Weed, had been in the days of the old Whig party.

"All my prepossessions were strongly in Mr. Barnes' favor," the Colonel added. "I corresponded with him before and after I was President, and Mr. Barnes visited me at the White House on a number of occasions. Sometimes he came with Mrs. Barnes and sometimes alone."

Spoke to Barnes About Gov. Hughes.

"After 1905, when Mr. Hughes became Governor of New York, I spoke of him several times to Mr. Barnes on matters relating to Albany. For instance, on one occasion I said to Mr. Barnes that Mr. Belmont, my former Race Commissioner, had called on me and said that he was much opposed to race track legislation. He wanted an opportunity to state his opposition, having it primarily on the fact that such legislation would destroy breeding farms for thoroughbreds throughout the State. Mr. Belmont also said he would withdraw his opposition if he became convinced that any improper methods were being used to defeat such legislation."

"I told Mr. Barnes about this and added that I had informed Mr. Belmont that I was not prepared to take a stand one way or the other, but felt that Mr. Belmont was entitled to state his case. I told Mr. Barnes I would like to see Mr. Belmont about the matter. Mr. Barnes replied, without expressing his personal views on the legislation, that in his judgment it would have to pass that the people with it, but he would see Mr. Belmont."

"Later I was informed that Mr. Belmont became convinced that improper means were being used against the legislation and was sustained."

Remade Letter From Barnes.

The witness then read a letter he had received from Barnes about that time. The letter followed:

Albany, N. Y., April 23, 1906. My Dear Roosevelt—In view of the newspaper articles which have been printed regarding certain legislation at Albany, I think it is possible you may have a wrong impression regarding the action which has been taken by me. The rumors which were circulated of insurance because of Payne's relations with certain big financial men and that Senator Platt was right about it.

That Barnes had told him that he could not get Payne's successor confirmed by the Senate, because organization Democrats and organization Republicans supported Payne.

That Barnes had told him it was necessary to protect the big business interests because they would not make contributions to a party falling to protect them.

That Barnes had told him the people were not fit to govern themselves, but had to be governed by the party organization, and that you could not run an organization, you cannot have leaders, unless you have money."

NATION'S RESPONSE ADEQUATE, SAYS BRITISH PREMIER

Asquith Tells Workmen It Is Not True Lack of Munitions Has Crippled Army.

LONDON, April 21.—The English newspapers today are devoting columns to comment on the optimistic speech delivered at Newcastle last night by Prime Minister Asquith.

The Prime Minister was in substance the putting into effect of a sort of industrial conscription by which employers shall forego some of their profits, the trade unions agree to suspend some of their strikes necessary in times of peace and factories in cases where the loss and injury has been caused by commanding for the Government.

The Prime Minister often has had to gloss over statements of his cabinet colleagues. In his appeal last night to the workmen of the East Coast to speed up the output of munitions of war, he refrained from all reference to the drink question and declared that there had been no slackness on the part of either the employers or the employees.

The necessity for greater effort, he said, arose from the fact that an enormous quantity of ammunition was being expended from the success of recruiting shortness of skilled labor. The Premier foreshadowed the enlargement of the present plants and the utilization of factories otherwise engaged to do Government work, with proper compensation.

The Premier declared the demand for men and material was on so vast a scale that it might be said, without exaggeration, that the whole nation was taking part in the war. The armaments factories of the country, he said, were being brought into being, drawn to a degree never before known from all classes and sections of the people. There were very few houses which had not voluntarily and spontaneously contributed their best manhood to the forces of the crown.

The men who were producing material were, in as true a sense as the sailors and soldiers, fighters and combatants in this national war. No man was worthy of the name of British citizen who was not taking his part in it. In the early days of the war, the Premier said, the Government had appealed for recruits and had obtained the largest and finest body of men who had ever followed the colors.

"They came not for adventure or for glory," said the Premier. "The spirit which has enabled us to make good our casualties can be described as a spirit of self-sacrifice. The same spirit is needed on the departments of war with which we are dealing tonight. I am not here to allude to the particular details of the war, but to the spirit which has enabled us to make good our casualties can be described as a spirit of self-sacrifice. MAN, 70, TELLS OF LOSING $5500 THROUGH CRONE

John Buck Says He Invested His Life's Savings in Trust Deals He Obtained From Realty Man and That Instruments Were Never Placed Upon Record.

ACCUSED DEALER IS ARRESTED AGAIN

Bond Raised From $5000 to $10,000, Which He Gives—New Frederick Case Develops—General "Clean Up" Is Proposed.

John Buck, 70 years old, of 3806 Sullivan avenue, testified in the Circuit Attorney's office this morning and announced that he had been swindled out of $5500, his life's savings and only protection in his declining years, by Charles Christian Crone, the North Broadway real estate dealer who has been indicted by the grand jury on a first-degree forgery charge.

Buck's complaint makes the fourth case in which the Circuit Attorney's office considers there is a possibility of Crone being indicted for first-degree forgery.

It also brought the total of Crone's known questionable dealings up to $59,850, of which he had been forced to make restitution of $29,000.

Newhouse Avenue Trust Deal.

Buck brought with him a deed of trust purporting to be a lien on property at 1027-29 Newhouse avenue. He brought it from Crone, Sept. 18, 1912, when he explained to the real estate man that he wanted a gilt-edged investment to protect him in his old age. He had gone to Crone because of the latter's general reputation on the North Side as a public-spirited citizen who always participated in North Side affairs and who once was honored with the presidency of the North St. Louis Business Men's Association.

Recently Buck examined the records at the Recorder's office and learned his deed of trust never was recorded there. Assistant Circuit Attorney Baer, who examined the deed of trust, said it did not bear the Recorder's filing stamp and that apparently it was an outright forgery. Buck will tell his story to the grand jury this afternoon. He had retired from business for life.

Crone Re-arrested.

Crone was re-arrested last night at his residence, 5236 Waterman avenue, on orders from the Circuit Attorney, who decided the evidence presented to the grand jury warranted increasing Crone's bond from $5000 to $10,000.

The real estate dealer had learned of impending re-arrest, and already had arranged a $10,000 bond, signed by Lewis F. Kupferle, secretary of the Kupferle Mfg. Co. It had been approved by Circuit Judge Cave. The new bond gave Crone's age as 64, whereas the $5000 bond signed last Thursday, the day the Post-Dispatch exposed Crone's crooked real estate deals, gave his age as 62.

The mini-penalty for Crone on conviction of first-degree forgery, would be considered equivalent to a life sentence. The same condition applies in the A. H. Frederick case.

Basin of Indictment.

The first-degree forgery indictment, although not reported in court, was returned as a result of Crone's sale of a $2000 forged deed of trust to the St. Louis Medical Society last January. The Medical Society had purchased two $2000 deeds of trust from Crone, as an investment, and, when the president, Dr. R. Emmet Kane, learned one deed was fraudulent, the society forced Crone to make restitution for the entire $4000.

Mrs. J. H. Kohring of 4483 Margaretta avenue and Mrs. Mary Beck of 9729 Connecticut street, who testified before the grand jury yesterday in the Crone case, will appear again this afternoon to produce deeds of trust which they purchased from Crone. Each holds $9000 in deeds of trust. It has not been determined what part, if any, may be of value.

Seven Questionable Deals.

Seven questionable cases against Crone have been presented to the grand jury, and the total amounts involved in them is $59,850. Of this $29,000 was the amount Crone made restitution for in 1900 to the Henry Wilhelm estate, to which he sold forged notes, and in which the Circuit Attorney recently ruled the statute of limitations prevailed.

Other Crone clients and the amounts of their investments, besides the Medical Society, Mrs. Kohring and Mrs. Beck, were: Buck, with $5500; Frederick Winters of 5716 North Broadway, $2100; Mrs. Lulu Spicker of 1422A Farrar street, and her father, $6000; and Charles Liebrant, 5230 St. Louis avenue, $300.

New Frederick Case.

Circuit Attorney Harvey said four additional indictments for first degree forgery, making five in all, probably would be voted against Frederick. A new Frederick case came to light yesterday afternoon when former Circuit Judge William B. Homer, investigating at the Recorder's office for a client whose name he refused to disclose, found a $12,000 deed of trust on property at 437 Laclede avenue had been released fraudulently.

Recorder Joy was summoned before the grand jury this afternoon to be asked about the system used in his office. The grand jury wants an arrangement made whereby persons investigating deeds of trust and who find them irregularly released, will be sent direct

Gunners' Mate Tells of Record 288-Foot Dive to Submarine F4 Finds Beautiful Beach on Bottom

Frank Criley, in First Story, Informs Post-Dispatch He Was Too Busy to Be Afraid.

Chief Gunners' Mate Frank Criley, U. S. N., one of the expert divers from the Brooklyn Navy Yard sent to Honolulu to aid in saving the lost submarine F4 and who on April 14 broke the world's record for depth reached by a diver by going down 288 feet and landing beside the submarine on the bottom, has told the story of his achievements for the Post-Dispatch. Criley was not allowed to talk before this time, because he was under the care of physicians, recovering from the tremendous exertion necessitated by his feat and his subsequent dive of 220 feet to rescue Diver Loughman, who had become entangled in his lines at that depth. He is all right now, he says, and ready to go down again whenever he is called on. Here is his story:

By FRANK CRILEY.

HONOLULU, April 21.—I never dived under such splendid conditions or in such wonderful water as here at Honolulu.

On the east coast the water is dark, sometimes so black you have to feel your way with your hands, and the bottom is muddy, but going down into this beautiful water is like passing through a wonderful picture.

I didn't have many sensations. I knew I was going to get down to that submarine, because, off Race Rock, Derishak went down 274 feet, and if he could do that I knew I could go 300 or better here, and so could any of the boys.

I got on the cable and went down without any trouble. It is easy to go down on the cable, which doesn't make any trouble as long as you keep your lines straight. I kept looking up a good deal, to see that the lines didn't foul, and slid down fast.

Before I got to the bottom, in fact, as soon as I got twenty-five or thirty-five feet down, I could see it. It was a beautiful place, a beach, as pretty as any beach you ever saw, clean, white sand, with little ripples made by the water.

Water Clear, Even at Bottom. The first descent was at quite an angle, and right there lay the F4, on her side, her bow toward the shore, inclined enough to show the slope of the beach. The water was so clear I could see her full length. It was clear enough and light enough down there to take pictures if there were any way of getting a camera down, as Williamson does in Bermuda.

When you look up the water is a light green, but when you look down it is a deep, clear blue. One of the most marvelous things, to my mind, is that there are no weeds down there, no vegetation, fish, mussels, but white sand like the slope of a hill.

The cable I was on led under the F4's stern. I worked around until I could get on top of her. The divers who followed me went down on other cables and were able to land square on top of the submarine.

I wasn't nervous, because I was sure the lines were all right; there to the Circuit Attorney's office. In all cases, the grand jury thinks the investigator and of the party complained of, so that these names could be supplied to the Circuit Attorney for investigation.

Proposed a "Clean-Up." Circuit Attorney Harvey said he wanted this grand jury to make a "clean up" of crooked real estate transactions, and to do this, the grand jury considered more efficient assistance from the Recorder's office would be necessary. Circuit Attorney issued a formal statement, requesting persons who possess deeds of released irregularity to appear at his office, and warning them that they would be guilty of a felony in shielding anyone who had defrauded the grand jury yesterday in the Crone case, will appear again this afternoon to produce deeds of trust which they purchased from Crone. Each holds $9000 in deeds of trust. It has not been determined what part, if any, may be of value.

F. J. Wiget and George W. Lubke, lawyers, were subpoenaed before the grand jury when the Circuit Attorney learned they had been investigating for clients, certain real estate transactions. Wiget, it is understood, made inquiries in the W. L. Musick case, to which the grand jury's attention has been called by Leon W. Quick, receiver for the Bankers' Trust Co.

was no danger from that, and then Mr. Sullivan was up above looking out for me, and wouldn't let me stay down very long.

I got an idea of the lay of the lines soon, and then went up again. Of course it was a long time before I reached the top, because of the care used in raising men from these depths, but was glad to know that the lines all clear and return home, her and would soon be raising her.

That's the job we came from Brooklyn to do, and our personal feelings don't count. It's all in the day's work. Nobody but a medical man can tell just how deep a diver can go here. It depends upon the ability of the diver to stand the decompression changes. But I am sure I can make 500 feet in these waters, with the lines all clear and no diagonal cables to worry over.

Too Busy to Think of Danger. On a job of this kind, the diver, so long as he is going up or coming down, or moving around on the bottom, is too busy to think of danger. He has to watch the lines too closely and make observations.

One of the things that struck me the most was this white, beautiful beach so far under water, and the submarine anchored out on it, so dark and still. What I did, any of the boys can do. Every man is anxious to do his duty and take his turn. I merely happened to be called on to make the first descent and to go deeper than the others, because I went clear to the bottom, while the others landed on the submarine, at about 18 feet less depth.

The deepest I ever went before was about 125 feet. I have been diving since 1905, some of the time in clear water, on the East Coast. I'm sorry I can't give a better statement, but it was just a job of work to be done. I was put on it, and I went down.

When the boys are glad we've succeeded in this salvage job, because it's about the hardest we ever tackled.

MANY AMERICAN FIRMS GOING INTO DYE-MAKING INDUSTRY

New Color Works Being Established and Existing Plants Are Enlarging Output.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—More than a score of American firms are establishing new color works or enlarging the output of existing plants to meet the demands of the textile industries and other allied branches of manufacture for dyestuffs, the supply of which formerly came almost exclusively from Germany and which has been cut off since Great Britain's embargo against German commerce. The Department of Commerce today announced it was devoting much attention to the progress in American dyestuff manufacture and had found a noteworthy advance. One company has provided for additional by-products even at an outlay of $1,000,000. Plants at Johnstown, Pa., Gary, Ind., Youngstown, O., Inland Harbor, Ind., Buffalo, N. Y., Woodward, Ala., and another in the South, are increasing or establishing facilities for benzol production. A plant at Marcus Hook, Pa., is nearly completed for the manufacture of intermediates on a large scale.

It is hoped, a report from Commercial Agent Thomas H. Norton says, that there is no objection to paying increased rates if the Public Service Commission decides that the railroads are entitled to the increase, but there is an opposition to paying more until the matter has been determined in a business-like way.

American coal tar dyes factories are making every effort to increase their output. These include factories at Albany, N. Y., and three at Newark, N. J. Extensions also are being made by manufacturers of vegetable dyestuffs, including firms at New York, Stamford, Conn., and Hanover, Pa.

MISSOURI TOWNS PROTEST AGAINST POOR TRAIN SERVICE

Frisco and Subsidiary Line Reduce Number of Trains in Southwestern Part of State.

TRAVEL AT MINIMUM

Conditions No Better Than 20 Years Ago, People Say; Retaliation Alleged.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., April 21.—Residents of many towns off the main lines of railroads in western Missouri south of the Missouri river are holding indignation meetings almost nightly in protest of the action of officials of the Frisco railroad in taking from them the greater part of their train service and practically isolating their towns.

The Frisco and the Kansas City, Springfield and Clinton, which in effect is a subsidiary of the Frisco, although it is operated under a separate corporation, have within the last two weeks taken off more than 20 trains. Train service in southwestern Missouri is no better today than it was 20 years ago.

Residents of the small towns affected charge that the action of the Frisco is in retaliation for the refusal of the Legislature to grant an increase in passenger fares to 3 cents per mile.

Travel at a Minimum. On nearly all of the branch lines of the Frisco train service has been cut out to one train each way a day and many short trips which formerly could be made in a few hours now require three days. The result has been that nearly all passenger business has ceased on these lines except for those who are required to use the roads on short trips.

Until 10 days ago for many years the Kansas City, Clinton & Springfield had two trains a day each way between Springfield and Kansas City. This enabled residents of the small towns to either Kansas City or Springfield in the morning, transact their business and return home the same evening. Now one train leaves Kansas City for Springfield in the morning and one leaves Springfield for Kansas City in the morning.

There is no evening train out of either city. Residents of towns between the cities, such as Clinton or Osceola, reach either Springfield or Kansas City too late in the afternoon to transact business and the next morning the trains leave those cities before any business can be transacted. Thus the residents of Clinton or Osceola must be gone from home three days.

This condition is true of nearly all the branch line towns. Resolutions have been adopted at mass meetings in many of the towns, and some protests have been filed with the Public Service Commission at Jefferson City. Mail service is crippled and few of the small towns get mail until at least 24 hours later than they formerly received it.

Protests by Many Towns. Among the towns from which protests have been sent to the railroad are Clinton, Bolivar, Osceola, Ulrich, Ozark, and Chadwick. In some of the protests the Kansas City, Clinton and Springfield is asked why it does not increase its rate to 3 cents per mile, as it can under the law, if the reduction in the rate of service is that a 2-cent fare is not remunerative and a 3-cent fare would be. The Kansas City, Clinton & Springfield is one of the few lines in the State which legally can charge 3 cents.

The reason that it does not so is said to be that it reaches some of the same towns as the Frisco, which legally can charge only 2 cents. The Frisco and Kansas City, Clinton & Springfield are the only roads which have taken off many trains. There is much complaint, however, against the Frisco in Joplin, Carthage, and Jefferson City because of the discontinuance of sleeping cars on the line between St. Louis and Joplin. For more than 20 years sleeping cars have been run over this line, but recently they were taken off.

A passenger between Joplin or Carthage and Jefferson City must now sit up all night. The southwestern section of the State can get sleeping car service to St. Louis over the Frisco, but not to Jefferson City. Splitwork Is Charged. Many residents of a number of the towns and many traveling men interviewed by a Post-Dispatch reporter on the trains, expressed the opinion that the taking off of the trains was done "for spite" and predicted that it would not change public opinion to favor the rate increase.

The general attitude of the public in the district affected seems to be that there is no objection to paying increased rates if the Public Service Commission decides that the railroads are entitled to the increase, but there is an opposition to paying more until the matter has been determined in a business-like way.

State Department Records Show Attitude on Arms Shipments in Spanish-American War.

STONE GETS FACTS ON GERMAN ACTION IN PINZON CASE

Senator Stone of Missouri, chairman of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, has looked up the records of the State Department regarding former Congressman Bartholdt's assertion as to the conduct of Germany during the Spanish-American War, in regard to the sale of contraband of war to Spain.

Bartholdt, arguing before the Senate any law that exports of arms from the United States to Europe should be prohibited, has stated that, in 1898, Germany stopped at Cuxhaven a Spanish ship bearing munitions of war from Hamburg to a Spanish port and required the ship to return to Hamburg. This was done, he said, at the request of the American Ambassador to Germany, Andrew D. White.

What the Records Show. Senator Stone asked Secretary of State Bryan for the records on this matter, and Secretary Bryan replied that the diplomatic correspondence of the time in question showed these facts:

May 18, 1898, Ambassador White was notified in a telephone message from the American Consul in Hamburg that the Spanish ship Pinzon was about to sail for Cardiff, to take on a cargo of coal for a Spanish port; that it was not clear whether the ship carried contraband or not, and that the Ambassador asked the German Foreign Office that the vessel be searched. The next day, the Consul reported that the Pinzon, passing Cuxhaven the night before, was searched for contraband by order of the German Imperial Chancellor, but that nothing was found.

When Ambassador White reported these facts to the State Department, the department instructed him to learn, without officially asking the German Government for the information, whether any laws or regulations were in force in Germany to forbid the shipment of contraband from German ports. The message to the Ambassador then said:

"It is important that, if any such laws or regulations exist, this Government and its agents may be informed of them, so as to avoid the embarrassments which might arise, if it should appear to protest on the general principles of international law against neutral governments allowing articles regarded merely as contraband of war to be shipped from their ports."

White on Germany's Action. Ambassador White replied, July 22, that he had been unable to learn that there had been any legislation in the empire on the subject of contraband. He added that Germany had never issued a proclamation of neutrality, that the Reichstag had not discussed the subject, and that Baron von Richthofen, was all that could be desired.

"Indeed," he added, "they went so far on one occasion as almost to alarm us. The American Consul at Hamburg having notified me by telephone that a Spanish vessel, supposed to be loaded with arms for use against us in Cuba, was about to leave that port, I hastened to the Foreign Office and urged that vigorous steps be taken, with the result that the vessel, which in the meantime had left Hamburg, was searched and searched at the mouth of the Elbe. The German Government might easily have pleaded, in answer to my request, that the American Government had generally shown itself opposed to any such interference with the shipment of small arms to belligerents, and had contended that it was not obliged to search vessels to find such contraband of war, but that this duty was incumbent upon the belligerent nation concerned. I took pains to make known."

BERLIN, via London, April 21.—Official news from German East Africa of the defeat of British forces Jan. 18 and 19 in a two-days' battle at a point near Jassini, has just reached Berlin. The British forces lost some 200 men in killed. Their total casualties amounted to about 700. These include the capture of four companies of men, 350 rifles, one machine gun and 60,000 rounds of ammunition. The loss to the Germans was seven officers and 11 men killed and 38 men wounded. LONDON. Americans are complaining vigorously to the American embassy and consulate because they are compelled under the regulations of the British Admiralty to bear the expense incidental to delays in the examination of cargoes of ships detained at Kirkwall and other British ports. Charges for loading and unloading cargoes and other port expenses are assessed against the owners of the cargoes or ship.

The Procurator-General gave assurances today to Robert P. Skinner, the American Consul-General, that every effort would be made to hasten the release of cargoes of American ships.

GETS ASSAULT WARRANT AGAINST CITY ATTORNEY

Reporter Charyes Vital W. Garesche Struck His Because of Story He Had Written.

A warrant charging Vital W. Garesche, City Attorney, with assault and battery, was issued by Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Wilson today on complaint of Aaron Benesch, a reporter for the St. Louis Star.

Benesch told Wilson that Garesche struck him in the face because of a news article written by Benesch, which appeared in yesterday's Star. The article told of a complaint made by Isaac M. Katz of 1816 Wash street against Garesche for dismissing the peace disturbance case against Abe Hyatt, in which Katz, his wife and daughter, were prosecuting witnesses. The case was dismissed by Garesche when it came up on an appeal in Judge Clark's division of the Court of Criminal

MAIL BOX ROBBER SUSPECT, WHOM POLICEMAN SHOT, DIES

Jean Wadsworth Was Wounded When He Tried to Escape—Man Caught With Him Got 20 Years.

Jean Wadsworth, known also as James Miller, under indictment on a charge of robbing mail boxes, died at the city hospital at 1 a. m. today. Wadsworth was shot by Policeman Carmody at Sixth and Cerre streets on the night of March 1.

Carmody saw two men and a woman acting suspiciously near a mail box. He arrested them. Wadsworth broke away and ran and after chasing him a block, Carmody shot him.

The woman, Mrs. Edith Beighley, told of the operations of a gang of mail robbers and of the part she took in aiding them. William Foster, known also as Sells, was one of the three arrested by Carmody. He pleaded guilty in the Federal Court Monday and was sentenced to serve 20 years in the Leavenworth penitentiary. Mrs. Beighley was not indicted.

Pilgrims' Shelter Is Saved.
PLYMOUTH, Mass., April 21.—The old Howland House, the only dwelling standing in America which has sheltered passengers who arrived on the Mayflower in 1620, will not be sold for debt. The Society of the Descendants of Pilgrims has satisfied judgment on a note against it and will retain the house.

FOR A SOUR STOMACH, INDIGESTION,
GAS OR DYSPEPSIA—PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN.

Wonder what upset your stomach— which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt; if sour, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented into stubborn lumps; your head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food; breath foul, tongue coated—just take Pape's Diapepsin, and in five minutes you will wonder what became of the indigestion and distress. Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps the stomach regulated and they eat their favorite food without fear.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quick-est, surest, most harmless relief is Pape's Diapepsin, which costs only fifty cents for a large case at drug stores. It's truly wonderful—it digests food and sets things straight, so gently and easily that it is astonishing. Please don't go on and on with a weak, disordered stomach; it's so unnecessary.—ADV.

PRESIDENT WILSON
GIVES HIS VIEW OF
TRUE NEUTRALITY

Test of Friendship Not Sympathy With Either Side, He Declares, but Getting Ready to Help Both Sides When the War in Europe Is Over.

THINK OF AMERICA
FIRST, PRESENT DUTY

Distinction Waiting for This Nation Which No Other Nation Has Ever Had, He Says in Speech at New York Luncheon.

By Associated Press.
NEW YORK, April 21.—President Wilson yesterday gave a definite statement of the neutrality which is guiding his administration during the war in Europe. He chose the occasion of the annual luncheon of the Associated Press for what he said he regarded as a statement of the gravest importance to the American people. The influence of the newspaper in molding public opinion, the President said, prompted him to make clear his ideas of true neutrality, and in doing so to impress upon his hearers the importance of adhering strictly to truthfulness and honesty in the dissemination of the news.

President Wilson seemed to weigh each word he uttered. The importance he attached to his statement was reflected in a request that no attempt be made to paraphrase his speech or to give it publicity until the official White House stenographer had transcribed it in full.

Future to Be Difficult.
As the only great nation not engaged in the war or suffering under the immediate influence of the war zone, President Wilson declared that a great distinction awaited the United States when the hour of readjustment should come, provide this nation should prove to the world its self-control and self-mastery. The past had been difficult, he pointed out, but the future would be more difficult. America, the President said, never would attempt to sit in judgment upon another nation. No nation was fit to do that, he added. But America, free from hampering ambitions as a world power, free of a lust for territory, calm, cool and without self-interest, must be appealed to to assist in the reconstructing processes of peace.

The neutrality of the United States the President said, had a higher basis than a petty desire to keep out of trouble. "There is something so much greater to do than fight," he said. "Let us think of America before we think of Europe, in order that America may be fit to be Europe's friend when the day of tested friendship comes. The test of friendship is not sympathy with one side or the other, but getting ready to help both sides when the struggle is over."

Greeted With Cheers.
The President, greeted with cheers when he appeared at the luncheon, constantly was interrupted by applause and expressions of approval. His speech follows:

"I am deeply gratified by the general reception you have accorded me here. It makes me look back with a touch of regret to former occasions when I have stood in this place and enjoyed a greater liberty than is granted me today. There have been times when I stood in this place and said what I really thought, and I pray that those days of indulgence may be accorded me again."

"But I have come here today, of course, somewhat restrained by a sense of responsibility that I cannot escape. For I take the Associated Press very seriously. I know the enormous part that you play in the affairs not only of this country, but of the world. You deal in the raw material of opinion and, if my convictions have any validity, opinion ultimately governs the world."

"It is, therefore, of very serious things that I think as I face this body of men. I do not think of you, however, as members of the Associated Press. I do not think of you as men of different parties or of different racial derivations, or of different religious denominations. I want to talk to you as to my fellow citizens of the United States. For there are serious things which as fellow citizens we ought to consider. The times behind us, gentlemen, have been difficult enough; the times before us are likely to be more difficult, because whatever may be said about the present condition of the world's affairs, it is clear that they are drawing rapidly to a climax, and at the climax the test will come, not only of the nations engaged in the present colossal struggle—it will come for them of course—but the test will come to us particularly."

"Do you realize that, roughly speaking, we are the only great nation at present disengaged. I am not speaking, of course, with disparagement of these great nations in Europe which are not parties to the present war, but I am thinking of their close neighborhood to it."

Separated by Ocean.
"I am thinking, however, their lives much more than ours touch the very heart and stuff of the business; whereas we have rolling between us and those bitter days across the water 2000 miles of cool and silent ocean. Our atmosphere is not yet charged with those disturbing elements which must be felt and must permeate every nation of Europe."

"Therefore it is not likely that the nations will some day turn to us for the cooler assessment of the elements engaged?"

"I am not now thinking so preposterous a thought as that we should sit in judgment upon them—no nation is fit to sit in judgment upon any other nation—but that we shall some day have to assist in reconstructing the processes of peace."

"Our resources are untouched; we are more and more becoming, by the force of circumstances, the mediating nation of the world in respect of its finance. We must make up our minds what are the best things to do and what are the best ways to do them. We must put our money, our energy, our enthusiasm, our sympathy into these things; and we must have our judgments prepared and our spirits chastened against the coming of that day. I am that I am not speaking in a selfish spirit when I say that our whole duty for the present, at any rate, is summed up in this motto, 'America first.' Let us think of America before we think of Europe, in order that America may be fit to be Europe's friend when the day of tested friendship comes. The test of friendship is not now sympathy with the one side or the other, but getting ready to help both sides when the struggle is over."

Basis of Neutrality Is Sympathy.
"The basis of neutrality, gentlemen, is not indifference; it is not self-interest. The basis of neutrality is sympathy for mankind. It is fairness, it is good will at bottom. It is impartiality of spirit and of judgment."

"I wish that all of our fellow citizens could realize that. There is in some quarters a disposition to create distempers in this body politic. Men are even uttering slanders against the United States, as if to excite her. Men are saying that if we should go to war upon either side, there will be a divided America—an abominable libel of ignorance. America is not all of it vocal just now. It is vocal in spots."

"But I for one have complete and abiding faith in that great silent majority of Americans who are not standing up and shouting and expressing their opinions just now, but are waiting to find out and support the duty of America. I am just as sure of their solidity and of their loyalty and of their unanimity, if we act justly, as I am that the history of this country has at every crisis and turning point illustrated this great lesson."

Mediating Nation of World.
"We are the mediating nation of the world. I do not mean that we undertake not to mind our own business and to mediate where other people are quarreling. I mean the word in a broader sense. We are compounded of the nations of the world. We mediate their blood, we mediate their passions; we are ourselves compounded of those things. We are therefore able to understand them in the compound, not separately, as partisans, but unitedly as knowing and comprehending and embodying them all. It is in that sense that I mean that America is a mediating nation. The opinion of America, the action of America, is ready to turn and free to turn in any direction.

No Racial Momentum.
"Did you ever reflect upon how almost all other nations, almost every other nation, has through long centuries been headed in one direction? That is not true of the United States. The United States has no racial momentum. It has no history back of it which makes it run all its energies and all its ambitions in one particular direction; and America is particularly free in this, that she has no hampering ambitions as a world power.

"If we have been chilled by circumstances or have considered ourselves to be obliged by circumstances in the past to take territory which we otherwise would not have thought of taking, I believe I am right in saying that we have considered it our duty to administer that territory not for ourselves but for the people living in it and to put this burden on our conscience, not to think that this thing is ours for our use, but to regard ourselves as trustees of the great business of the world."

MRS. BEIDEL TELLS WOMEN

How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Kept Her in Health for 14 Years.

"It was several years ago that I started taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I then suffered terribly at intervals. My husband bought me a bottle of it and it helped me right away. Then after my second child was born I had a female ailment very badly and I used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and in a short time I was cured and have been in excellent health since. I always praise the Compound whenever I have an opportunity as I know it helped me and will help others. Lately I have given the Compound to my daughter, and I wish all suffering women would take it and be convinced of its worth."

JAMES A. BEIDEL, 113 N. Penn Street, Shippensburg, Pa.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and today holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ills we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., seem to prove this fact.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

"But I am interested in neutrality because there is a distinction waiting for this nation that no other nation has ever yet got. That is the distinction of absolute self-control and self-mastery."

"Whom do you admire most among your friends? The irritable man? The man out of whom you can get a 'rise' without trying? The man who will paralyze at the drop of the hat, whether he knows what the hat is dropped for or not?"

"Don't you admire and don't you fear if you have to contend with him the self-mastered man who watches with an eagle eye and some in only when you have carried the thing so far that you must be disposed of? That is the man you respect. That is the man who you know has at bottom a much more dignified and terrible courage than the irritable fighting man."

Courage of Resolute Force.

"Now, I want for America this splendid courage of resolute moral force, and I want to point out to you gentlemen simply this: There is news and news. There is what is called news from Turkey Bay, that turns out to be falsehood, at any rate in what it is said to signify and which, if you could get the nation to believe it true, might disturb our equilibrium and our self-possession. We ought not to permit things of that sort to use up the electrical energy of the wire, because its energy is malign. Its energy is not of the truth, its energy is of mischief."

"I have known some things to go out on the wires as true when there was only one man or one group of men who could have told the originators of the report, whether it was true or not, and they were not asked whether it was true or not, for fear it might not be true. That sort of report ought not to go out over the wires."

Wait for Confirmation.

"There is generally, if not always, somebody who knows whether that thing is so or not, and in these days, above all other days, we ought to take particular pains to report to the one small group of men or to the one man, if there be but one, who knows whether those things are true or not."

"The world ought not to know the truth, but the world ought not at this period of our history to be disturbed by rumor ought not to be disturbed by imaginative combinations of circumstances or rather, by circumstances stated in combination which do not belong in combination. For we are holding, not I, but you and gentlemen, are engaged like you, the balance in your hand. This unstable equilibrium rests upon scales that are in your hands. For the food of opinion, as I began by saying, is the news of the day. I have known many a man go off at a tangent on information that was not reliable. Indeed, that describes the majority of men. The world is held stable by the man who waits for the next day to find out whether the report was true or not."

"We cannot afford, therefore, to let the rumors of irresponsible persons and origins get into the atmosphere of the United States. We are trustees for what I venture to say is the greatest heritage that any nation ever had, the love of justice and righteousness and human liberty. For, fundamentally, these are the things to which America is addicted and to which she is devoted."

"There are groups of selfish men in the United States, there are coteries where sinister things are purposed, but the great heart of the American people is just as sound and true as it ever was. And it is a single heart; it is the heart of America. It is not a heart made up of sections selected out of other countries."

"So that what I try to remind myself of every day when I am almost overcome by perplexities, what I try to remember, is what the people at home are thinking about. I try out myself in the place of the man who does not know all the things that I know and ask myself what he would like the policy of this country to be."

Address by F. B. Noyes.

President Wilson was introduced by President Frank S. Noyes of the Associated Press and was the only speaker at the luncheon.

"We are gathered here today," Mr. Noyes said, "the membership of what is, I believe, in scope and importance of activities, the greatest co-operative non-profit-making organization in the world. The function of the Associated Press is to furnish its members a service of world news that shall be untainted and without bias of any sort. To insure this we have formed an organization that is owned and controlled by its members, and by them alone, one that is our servant and not our master."

"So we are here today, Democrats and Republicans; Protestants, Catholics, Jews; conservatives and radicals, wet and dry; differing on every subject on which men differ, but all as one in demanding that, so far as it is humanly possible, no trace of partisanship and no hint of propaganda shall be found in our news report."

"Furnished with the news we are quite able and more than willing individually to supply the necessary views. Thus, by easy steps, I have come to the fact that because of the traditions and its code, and perhaps also by the never-ceasing watchfulness of 800 members, it has come to pass that few people on earth are capable of giving the man-points on maintaining a strict, though benevolent, neutrality on all questions on which we can be neutral and still be what we are—loyal Americans."

"We point with pride to the years and the occasions through which we have balanced on every discoverable fence."

Tout to the President.

"We know, too—none better—the genuine neutral, the honest neutral, is always the target of every partisan, and we find some solace that this fact is now being demonstrated to the world at large."

"Today, however, we willingly lower our crest to one who has demonstrated in the agonizing times his mastery of the principles of true neutrality, and who, fully realizing the dreadful consequences of any departure from these principles, has nobly borne his terrible burden of responsibility in guarding the peace, the welfare, and the dignity of our common country."

"Our distinguished guest who so honors us today may surely know that in the perplexities and trials of these days so black for humanity he has our thorough, loyal and affectionate support."

"God grant him continuing success in high aims for the peaceful progress of the people of the United States."

"At these annual gatherings it is our custom to offer but one toast, I ask you to drink to the health of Woodrow Wilson, the President of the United States."

The toast was drunk standing.

FINDS $1800 IN STOLEN STAMPS

Postoffice Inspector Led to Hiding Place of Willow Springs Loot.

WILLOW SPRINGS, Mo., April 21.—J. J. Starling, who was arrested in Springfield, March 28, and who helped to blow the postoffice safe in this city on March 28, was brought here yesterday by Postoffice Inspector Ward whom he led to the place where stamps stolen from the safe were secreted. The stamps, amounting to about $1800, were hidden in a brush pile in an old field near Sterling, five miles north of here. The pouch in which the stamps were carried was found about a mile from the stamps. With the sack were several half dimes and small foreign coins.

R. K. Martin, Starling's accomplice, is in jail at Springfield. He also has confessed. After the safe was blown preparations were made to blow the inner money chest, containing postal funds. Starling says Martin became alarmed and refused to wait to blow the chest.

ELEVEN TOWNS IN ILLINOIS CAPTURED BY "DRY" VOTERS

Women Prove Important Factor in Many of the Local Option Elections.

CHICAGO, April 21.—Results of local option elections in 25 towns and villages in Illinois yesterday were heralded as a victory by prohibition leaders today.

Eleven towns were swept into the dry column, abolishing about 8 saloons and all previously dry territory was retained with the exception of Kankakee, Livingston County, which changed from dry to wet. The wet retained 12 towns and villages. Votes of women proved to be the controlling factor at several places. In Litchfield 15 saloons were wiped out by women. In Ottawa, however, where the issue was bitterly contested, the women furnished 121 votes towards the wet majority of 1240. Forty-eight saloons were retained. Figures provided by F. Scott McBride, State Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, showed that there are now 55 entirely dry counties in the State, 46 partially dry and one, Monroe, entirely wet. Seventy counties seats are dry while 32 remain wet.

Among villages, which voted dry were Auburn, Gardner, Litchfield, New Douglas, West Chicago, Lombard, Pontiac and Naperville. In addition to Ottawaw, Beardstown, Troy, Dixon, Cullom and Morris were voted to remain wet.

William H. Barber was elected Mayor of Joliet at the first election under the commission form of government and gave credit for his victory to a women's majority. At Aurora James E. Harley was elected Mayor by a majority of 568, and 542 of these votes were furnished by women.

Dr. A. E. Fritz was re-elected Mayor of Chester yesterday by a majority of 44 votes over Dr. H. C. Adderly, being saved by the vote of the women, who cast nearly 600 votes. Belvidere elected a Democratic city ticket for the first time in the city's history.

Woman Elected Treasurer.

Robinson elected a woman, Elizabeth E. Jacks, Treasurer on a ticket headed by John T. Lindsey, who was candidate for Mayor. Women cast more than half the votes polled.

Women at Flora in the first election under commission government, cast about a third of the total vote, helping elect George J. Price Mayor, on a platform of economy in administration and the abolition of pool rooms.

In Chanderville Mrs. Marie G. Fielden, candidate for Mayor, was defeated by a small majority by J. W. Abbott, Republican.

The Rev. Malachi Keene was defeated for Mayor of Pinckneyville by George E. Hinckley of 48 votes.

Nearly as many women as men voted in Windsor, where W. W. Griffith, Republican, was elected over a bipartisan candidate.

More women than men voted in Mount Vernon, where the Democratic ticket, headed by W. S. Payne for Mayor, was elected.

At Cairo Mayor Walter H. Wood and two of the three Commissioners were re-elected. The third, Oliver P. Hurd Jr., was defeated by Fred D. Nellis.

Drya Wins Danville's Council.

Although they lost the Mayor, the drys captured and 8 to 5 majority in the Danville City Council and the proprietors of Danville's 74 saloons are confronted by the possibility that their licenses may not be renewed when they expire. Mayor W. C. Lewman, candidate of the wets was re-elected.

Out of a total of 1600 votes cast at Vandalia, 700, almost half, were cast by women. Mayor C. A. Janett, candidate on the Citizens' ticket, was re-elected by 220 votes over former Mayor J. H. Mammen, Republican.

Fifteen Cities and Towns in South Dakota Go Dry.

ABERDEEN, S. D., April 21.—Fifteen wet cities and towns in South Dakota went dry yesterday. Salem was the single instance reported of a change from dry to wet. Among the cities which ousted saloons were Mitchell, Madison, Rapid City, Milbank, Custer, Platte, Farmer and Leola. The situation in Aberdeen still was in doubt, awaiting the official count, unofficial returns showing a tie.

ALL VISITORS TO GERMANY TRAILED BY SECRET AGENTS

Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Watched From Time He Landed in Holland and Became Lonesome in Moments When He Was Not Shadowed.

BOYS AND MAIDS AT HOTELS KEEP WATCH

Letter From Head of System Paved Way for Travel—Passports Gone Over Many Times and Questions Are Innumerable.

By GUSTAVE C. ROEDER, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World who has just returned from a tour of Germany.

Next to the army, there is nothing better organized in Germany than the spy system. It is absolutely impossible for a stranger to enter the Kaiser's domains without being positively identified first, and without being subjected to minute scrutiny, not only on the part of the uniformed officials, but also by civilian employees of what no doubt comprises the most efficient secret service system in the world.

The writer had landed at Rotterdam from the steamer bearing the Rotterdam name, belonging to the Holland-American line. Five floating mines had been passed, one so close that I could easily distinguish its number, "211," painted in white letters on the upper part of the mine.

Meets First Secret Agent.

At the railway station in Rotterdam, where the writer purchased a first-class ticket for Berlin, the first encounter with a German secret service man was had. He was also found for Berlin, so he declared. He spoke English fluently—American English, at that—and told how at one time he had lived in Chicago. He said he was a native of San Francisco, after the correspondent had confessed he had never visited the Golden Gate. He insisted he was a buyer for a big concern in Germany, stood well with the German Government, produced papers made out at the German Foreign Office and bearing the official stamp of the empire. He volunteered to aid the correspondent across the border, and even suggested that the writer might interest him with any letters or other writings the correspondent might have in his possession.

"They don't question me at all; they know me at the frontier," he said.

"On the other hand, they will take all your correspondence away from you at the frontier and may even detain you for days."

Of course I, who had not made known my errand nor my business in Germany, had an opinion as to the war, was I pro-German or otherwise? To this I truthfully reported that I was neutral.

"But you must have a leaning one way or the other," insisted the answer.

One searching look at the German secret service man, a small town in Germany. Before the war, he had been a traveling salesman, but since the outbreak of hostilities, such service has been abandoned. Holland will not permit her railroad coaches to travel outside of her own country, and the same rules are in force as far as the German railway service is concerned, which is just now under the military authority. All the passengers had to leave the train upon its arrival at Bendheim. One could not even handle his own baggage. Uniformed employees took charge of that, informing the passengers they would find it within the big hall when the inspection took place.

In the general bustle the man from San Francisco has disappeared. The travelers lined up and made their way toward a small door which led to the inspection quarters. On either side of the entrance were armed soldiers. Besides, there were more secret service men, who were paying strict attention to the people. Others, it could be noticed, mingled among the actual travelers and made it appear as if they, too, had just arrived from Holland. They would attempt to start a conversation with a passenger, many offered suggestions how to get through the lines without possible detection. In fact, they made use of every possible means to learn something about the newcomers.

Once inside of the door you passed along a narrow passage, at the head of which stood two chief petty officers of the German army in full uniform. The head of them was a Captain of the army, also in his regimental uniform, and behind him were two well-dressed civilians who could talk English, French, German, in fact any language required.

Passport is Called For.

The first thing asked for was the passport. This had to be handed to the first official encountered. Every passport, including those issued by the State Department in Washington, has the bearer's photograph and a complete description as well. The passport was most carefully examined, then the photograph on the document compared with the original. Then followed an examination of the arrival's description as set forth on the passport. Height, complexion, color of eyes, chin, nose, particularly marks of identification, all were made the subject of painstaking scrutiny.

It was told that my examination had proved satisfactory and I might have my baggage strapped again. Oh, no, I could not take it along just now. It would be passed to me just before the German train departed.

Surely this was the last examination. Quite to the contrary. At the exit on the other side of the hall, and again leading to another passage, the writer was halted again.

"Passport, please," called out a civilian official who was seated behind a table.

He had not been noticed before; this because he was surrounded completely by more uniformed soldiers and policemen. You had to pass within that circle. Once arrived there the passport was again examined and an entry made in a book on the desk. There the name of the bearer, his age, destination, home address, occupation and the number of the passport were duly recorded. Then the document was stamped with the name of the frontier town and the date of admission.

After a final examination at the outer gate leading to the station at Bendheim the German train was boarded. Armed soldiers were stationed at every railroad station, every railroad crossing and particularly at every railroad bridge throughout the entire German empire. There were soldiers along the entire length of the train on the side opposite to the one used in entering. This was done, it was explained to me, in order to make sure that no passengers should leave the train, and that nobody should attempt to board the train from the opposite side. The "gentleman from San Francisco" was also on the train.

The "gentleman from San Francisco" appeared to be acquainted with all the train officials, and it became quite evident he had been assigned to guard the foreign travelers aboard the train.

DELICIOUS "SYRUP OF FIGS" IS BEST IF HEADACHY, CONSTIPATED, BILIOUS.

If you're headachy, constipated, bilious or stomach is disordered and you want to enjoy the nicest liver and bowel cleansing you ever experienced, take a tablespoonful of "California Syrup of Figs" tonight and in the morning all the poison, bile and clogged-up waste will gently move out of the system without griping and you will feel splendid.

Every member of the family should use this fruit laxative as occasion demands. It is just as effective for grandpa as it is for the baby. It simply cannot injure. Even cross, sick, feverish children just love its pleasant taste and mothers can rest easy after giving it, because it never fails to effect a good "inside cleansing."

For thirty years "California Syrup of Figs" has been recommended by physicians as the ideal stomach, liver and bowel cleanser. Millions of families who are well informed use nothing else, but recently there has come a flood of spurious fig syrups, so we warn the public to ask plainly at drug stores for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," and see that it is prepared by "California Fig Syrup Company." We make no cheaper size. Hand back any "counterfeit" with contempt.—ADV.

Your First Choice

—This Month You Can Get It

Hudson will be your first choice in Light Sixes. It is first choice with so many that demand exceeds supply. All last Summer there were thousands on our waiting list. But this month we can make prompt deliveries, due to big Winter output and trebled capacity.

What is true of the Hudson is true of the leader in every class, as you know. The car that stands out as first choice finds over-demand each Summer.

That is why men should choose early—before Winter outputs are sold. It saves them delays in delivery.

Sales Have Trebled

Hudson sales have trebled since this Light Six came out. But this Spring—like last Spring—there is likely to be a considerable shortage of Hudsons. That will mean you must be content with a second-choice car, or lose weeks of pleasant driving. Choose now and avoid that.

Day of Light Sixes

This, as you know, is the day of Light Sixes. Few men who pay over $1100 buy any other type. Overweight and over-tax is ended, never to return.

The Light Six—if truly light—is the highest-grade car ever built. It must be to be staunch. It must employ much aluminum. It must have special steels. It must have a small-bore, high-speed motor, which is very economical. This new-type car has cut tire cost and fuel cost in two.

The Hudson is the pioneer Light Six. It is by far the leader of this type. It is the lightest of its class.

It is the only one designed by Howard E. Coffin, the creator of the Light-Six type. It is a finished product. Four years have been spent in refining every part. Every detail shows it.

It is, above all, the proved Light Six. Over 12,000 cars are now running. Half of them have run for two seasons, on millions of miles of road. Any owner will tell you the car is right. That's a vital fact to know in any new-type car.

For all these reasons, Hudson will be your first choice. Its beauty, its reputation, its records will appeal to you. Find this out, for your own sake, while you can get a car.

BURNING PIMPLES ON ARMS AND LEGS

Would Itch, Scratched and Irritated Them. Clothing Aggravated. Could Not Sleep. Used Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. In Four Months Was Well.

1324 N. Oakley Ave., Chicago, Ill.—"Little pimples began to break out on my arms and legs. The skin was red and water would run from the pimples. They would itch and burn and that made me scratch and irritate them. My clothing aggravated the breaking out. I could not sleep.

"I used a great many remedies but they failed to help me. I had the eczema for five months and then I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I washed my arms and legs with the Soap, then I applied the Ointment. They stopped the itching and burning and gave me good night's rest. In four months I was well." (Signed) Benjamin Schedel, Oct. 15, 1914.

Although the Cuticura Soap and Ointment are most successful in the treatment of affections of the skin, scalp, hair and hands, they are also most valuable for everyday use in the toilet, bath and nursery because they promote and maintain the health of the skin and hair from infancy to age.

Sample Each Free by Mail
With 32-p. Skin Book on request. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston." Sold throughout the world.

Fruitola Came to Her Rescue

From her home in Mountain Park, Oklahoma, Mrs. O. A. Strange writes to the Pinus laboratories:

"I am taking Fruitola and Traxo for gallstones with good results. If it had not been that it came to my rescue, I would have been dead I am sure. I cannot say too much for Fruitola and Traxo."

Fruitola possesses properties that act directly upon the intestinal parts. It is a great system cleanser. Traxo is a tonic alternative that acts on the liver and kidneys, stimulates the flow of gastric juices to aid digestion and removes bile from the general circulation. It serves to build up and strengthen the weakened, run-down system.

The Pinus laboratories have many letters on file that testify to the merits of Fruitola and Traxo; letters from people who have used the remedy and know from actual experience what it has done for them.

For the convenience of the public, arrangements have been made to supply Fruitola and Traxo through leading druggists. A booklet of special interest to people suffering from stomach trouble can be obtained free by writing to the Pinus Co., Monticello, Ill.

Society

MRS. ELIAS S. GATCH of 5266 Westminister place and Daniel McQuinn, her husband, returned from California, where they have been since the late winter. Miss Gatch's engagement to Lockwood Hill was announced in the winter, and although the date of the marriage has not been set it probably will be before the summer.

Another wedding at the Church of the Immaculate Conception this morning was that of Miss Nellie Justice McCaslyn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. McCaslyn of 1602 South Compton avenue, and John B. Turner, which took place at 9 o'clock. Miss Lucile Barnard was maid of honor and Miss Mae Thorpe was bridesmaid. Virginia Ellen Kennedy, the bride's little cousin, was flower girl.

The bridegroom had Donald Hoffman for his best man and Daniel McQuinn for groomsmen. A bridal breakfast at the bride's home followed the ceremony and afterward Mr. Turner and his bride departed for their honeymoon trip.

Miss Stella Marie Lynch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Lynch of 2903 Russell avenue, and Christopher Muckermann were married today at noon in the Church of the Immaculate Conception in the presence of a large assemblage of friends and relatives. The Rev. Father Redding, a cousin of the bride, celebrated the nuptial mass and Father Shea, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony.

Mrs. Matthew E. Sullivan Jr. was matron of honor and Miss Rose Muckermann, the bridegroom's sister, was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Misses Leona Krey, Nina Betz, Georgia Ferber and Alma Wachter. Miss Gladys Muckermann was flower girl. Frank Muckermann was best man for his brother and the ushers were Matthew E. Sullivan Jr., William Frank, Joseph A. Lynch Jr., Richard Muckermann, Harry Fabricius and Walter Muckermann.

After the church service there was a reception at the Lynch residence. Mr. Muckermann and his bride will go East for their honeymoon and when they return they will be at home at 3623 Humphrey street.

The engagement was announced yesterday of Miss Evelyn Busch, daughter of Mrs. John A. Busch of 578 McPherson avenue, to P. Warren Downes, at a small tea given by Mrs. Busch.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude E. Quivey and their children and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dohman have returned from San Francisco and have taken rooms at the Hamilton Hotel for the season. Mr. Quivey is a brother of Miss Grace Van Studdford, the light opera singer. Mr. and Mrs. Dohman, the latter better known as E. M. Chatten, have come to St. Louis to execute several commissions as miniature painters.

Mr. and Mrs. John Loebner, 1708 South Eighth street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Irene, to Adolph Weintraub, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Weintraub of Argenta, Ark. The wedding will take place some time in June. The couple will reside in Argenta, Ark.

Estelle Neuhaus, pianiste, will give her second recital at the Wednesday Club Auditorium tomorrow afternoon. Part of the proceeds of the recital will go to the St. Louis Children's Aid Society. Mrs. George C. Hitchcock is president of the society, which has done much to keep many poor families together and also to place destitute children in good foster homes.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene McCloskey of 5227 Maple avenue are receiving the congratulations of their friends upon the arrival of a son.

Because They Were Off Color, Both the Browns and Cards Were Whitewashed

By JEAN KNOTT.

BROWNS' MACHINE IS AN AMBULANCE; EIGHT MEN LEFT

Rickey's Outfit in No Condition for First Trip Which Starts Tonight.

MANAGER NOT WORRIED

"My Men Have the Right Spirit, Even if They Are Bungled Up," He Says.

By W. J. O'Connor.

An automobile ambulance rumbled into Dodder street at Grand yesterday afternoon while the few faithful fans who had watched the Browns bow to the Indians, 9-8, issued from Sportman's Park. As the red-cross bus picked its way recklessly through an army of those "watch-your-car" pests, one was remarked:

"Well, I guess Rickey is going to take the Browns out for an airing."

His point is well taken. About the only way the Browns, at this writing, can navigate is in an ambulance. For there are more sick and injured on Rickey's club after a brief sojourn on the home grounds than one might find in a German trench following a charge of the foreign legion. The Browns are shot.

For instance:

Del Pratt has a twisted ankle; out for four days.

Dee Walsh has a lacerated eye; out for a week.

Dr. John Lavan has a swollen finger; may play Thursday.

Walter Levens has an infected foot; return indefinite.

Earl Hamilton, generally unfit; has gone home.

Carl Weisman is overworked; all fagged out.

Bill James has a kink in his arm, but may work today; can't dodge it.

George Baumgardner is all wrong; a total loss.

Otherwise the Browns are pretty chipper. Indeed the morale of the club is good. They have won three out of seven games in spite of the injury list and are in every position to have a hiccup in their progress.

Browns Go to Chicago, Tonight.

Tonight Rickey leads his men to Chicago for the first road trip. He is shy of two regulars, but has a number in shape to go nine innings and is worried by the consequential weak hitting, but he has found a rift in the storm cloud. Said Rickey this morning:

"If you were on the bench and felt the pulse of my men you would marvel at their gameness under these conditions. When you haven't a pitcher who can pitch and are deprived of three regulars while everybody, down to the mascot, is in a hitting slump, it takes some courage to keep fighting. And my boys are just aggressive, no matter how it comes out. I know the stand. I know that the club has the proper spirit and it is only a question of time until we hit our stride. These trying circumstances, coming at they do at the very start of the season, has given me a rift in the storm cloud. I'm pleased, yes, enthused over the case as far as I have gone. Rickey refused today to name the players who will make the short swing around the western end of the circuit. He will take St. Louis, Philadelphia, Rickey released Billy Lee, an outfielder, to the Atlanta club. Lee was secured from Connie Mack. Can't hit much as yet.

Home Run Only a Single.

The question often is asked whether a batter gets credit for a home run if in the last half of the ninth inning, with the score tied and a runner on third, he makes the ball out of the lot. The answer is of course, in that he gets only a single—his team's only run.

With two out, three on in the tenth, Red Smith hit to the bulletin board at Fenway Park—an easy home run. He credited with a single. Boston won again, 4-3.

Old Man Wagner, who is wheezing into his last year, has a little to say. Yesterday he beat the Cubs, 5-1. Yesterday, Chicago's pitcher, Ed Walsh, was better than last spring. However, the Cardinals got a smart start a year ago and then backed up. The Cardinals like the logical tail end of this season.

The Cardinals had a chance last summer to buy Shortstop Bancroft from the Coast League. The opportunity was ignored because the Coast League wouldn't give a written guarantee that Bancroft would make the grade. Philadelphia gambled on the player, and he is considered the brightest star in the N. L. circuit this spring. He has made six hits out of 25 times at bat, an average of .240. He has one home run, one triple, one double and is hitting .300.

Three Days at Ascot.

LONDON, April 21. 3:02 p. m.—The Times says it understands that the Ascot races will be curtailed this year to three days. The meet will probably begin Wednesday, June 16, and the fine handicap race, which for years has been the feature of the program, will be abandoned.

Post-Dispatch Offers Medals to Winners in New School League

WITH regret the management of the Post-Dispatch Public School Baseball League announces that the organization which has afforded so many exciting struggles since 1901 will not be revived this season.

Adopting the Post-Dispatch idea, the physical culture department of the Board of Education last year laid the foundation of a public school league, and this year has brought the details to completion. With the Board of Education in the field, the necessity of longer continuing the Post-Dispatch organization ceased.

The Post-Dispatch will, however, offer medals to the championship team, just as in former years. But the management of the league will be entirely in the hands of the Board of Education. The first Post-Dispatch Public School League series was played in 1901. The race was won by the Irving School team. The Post-Dispatch simultaneously conducted a Parochial School League, the race that year being won by the Holy Name club. The Irving and the Holy Names played off for the city championship.

Yale Will Send Relay Team to Penn Meeting

Fast Quartet Will Represent the Blue in Two-Mile Varsity Event.

PHILADELPHIA, April 21.—Yale University today sent a belated entry for the two-mile relay championship to be held at the relay carnival here on Friday and Saturday of this week. The Yale representatives are Lovemore Overton, Barker and Pouch, who made a good showing last winter in the indoor meets. All four can do the half-mile under two minutes.

Princeton also entered its team in this event today. The men being Gooley, Hayes, Albin and McKee. This team was considered the indoor two-mile champions during the winter.

Yale's relay team consists of Cornell, Dartmouth, Michigan, Cornell, Cornell and Harvard are also in this event, each with exceptionally fast quartets.

Princeton's meet has attracted the attention of sport lovers because of the novelty of the various events and also because many of the greatest athletes in the American colleges. Contrary to expectations there will be class in all of the college events listed for Saturday. The relay races will have a great lot of runners on the various teams.

WEAK HITTING BY TERRIERS' INFIELD HANDICAPS TEAM

Bridwell and Company Have a Season's Batting Average of only .156.

Fleider Jones, in his prime as manager of the Chicago White Sox, in 1906, when he captured a pennant and world's championship with a club known as the "hitless wonders," never had an outfit any weaker with the stick than the one he is chaperoning at present.

Base hits for the Terriers are an almost unknown quantity. The outfielders are picking up a bit in hitting, Drake coming through with three safeties yesterday, while Ward Miller grabbed one out of three. But the infielders are woefully weak.

The five infielders for the Terriers—Johnson, Borton, Deal, Bridwell and Vaughn—have a combined batting average of .156 for the campaign. This represents 17 hits in 108 times at bat. Between them the quintet has counted eight tallies.

Ernie Johnson is the hitting star of the inner works, with a sweet catch of 34. "Babe" Borton, the big first sacker, who has 206, while Charley Deal, hero of the 1914 world's series, is hitting .154. The mark for Bridwell .046. The veteran second sacker has made one hit in 26 times at bat. The base hit came off Chief Johnson of Kansas City. Vaughn, who yesterday replaced Bridwell, is batting .000.

One thing sure, any time you get 11 hits for 15 total bases, and are confined within a limit of two runs, the other fellows are surely putting up a fine defensive that would make Von Hindenburg of the Lakes look like a piker.

Rube Benton, thanks to the surrounding landscape, shut out the Cardinals with two hits, while Huggins, home address, Wallons surrounded by them. "Thanks to the landscape" goes the story of the Cincinnati outfielders.

REDS SCORE TWO RUNS ON 11 HITS; CARDS CAN'T BAT

Hug's Men, in Hitting Slump, Yield Again to Cincinnati, 2-0.

CINCINNATI, April 21.—Those raking, reveling Reds corralled one more from Huggins' herd Tuesday, but they sure had to work their heads off to do it. Two runs appear on the Red box score, but it took 11 hits to get them, and of the 11 two were registered as two-basers and one went for a triple.

One of the doubles and also the previously mentioned triple were really spiced by the Cardinal outfielders. Becher dropping the triple with a fly, coquetish squeak last long run into him, while Long, holding a seething fly right in his little lily white hands, let go of it because he wasn't sure whether it was the ball or a fried egg. Anyway, since the cultured gentlemen who batted them stand in great need of the hits for a batting average that looks like a profile of a Belgian refugee, the official scorer called them hits, so let it go at that.

Not a Growl From the Terriers, Yet

GERBER BATTLES TWO MEN IN SAME RING; WHIPS FIRST

St. Louis Lightweight Tires in Second and Bout Is Stopped to Save Him.

Harry Sharpe's Decisions

HARRY GERBER vs. "Kid" Beck, both of St. Louis; eight rounds, at 135 pounds—Gerber the winner; bout stopped in first round to save Beck from knockout.

Leo Witt of St. Louis vs. Sammy Phillips of Brooklyn, N. Y.; eight rounds at 125 pounds—Witt the winner on points.

Ad Fischer of Maplewood vs. Harry Gerber of St. Louis; eight rounds at 135 pounds—Fischer the winner; bout stopped in eighth round to save Gerber from knockout.

Al Monterey of St. Louis vs. Billy Cole of Winnipeg, Canada; eight rounds at 125 pounds—Monterey the winner by knockout in first round.

"Bud" Clancy of St. Louis vs. Dick Holman of Red Bud, Ill.; eight rounds at 135 pounds—Clancy the winner; bout stopped in third round to save Holman from knockout.

By Harry S. Sharpe.

Reference for the Future City A. C. and the Post-Dispatch's Boxing Authority.

Of the five boxing bouts decided at the Future City Athletic Club last night the most interesting one took place between Ad Fischer and Harry Gerber at 135 pounds. Either one had a chance to win until Fischer reduced Gerber's strength to the falling point in the seventh round.

It had been a good bout for six rounds with Fischer having the better of it by reason of his superior boxing ability, but Gerber has a hard punch, and this he sent in frequently with telling effect. The men worked fast, and at the end of the sixth round both were tiring.

In the seventh round Fischer was the fresher and he got to Gerber with some hard right crosses to the face. Gerber appeared to be weak when the round ended.

Fischer, realizing his advantage, went to Gerber in the eighth round to finish him and succeeded in landing some heavy blows. I stopped the bout when Gerber appeared too weak to properly defend himself.

"This was the third bout of the evening, and was the second time on for Gerber. In the first bout that took place he had been matched with "Kid" Beck, the latter having suffered a severe Harry Overlander, who failed to appear.

Phillips Easy for Leo Witt.

Leo Witt of St. Louis had an easy time out-punching Sammy Phillips of Brooklyn, N. Y., in eight rounds at 125 pounds. Witt was the aggressor throughout, settling all the pace, while Phillips seemed content to let Witt wait for an opportunity to get over a hard punch now and then.

He boxed in listless fashion, and Witt was much too clever for him. The latter hurt his right hand in the third round, but he might have saved himself by stopping the bout.

Billy Cole, the eleven-year-old boxer from Winnipeg, Canada, who has become quite a favorite with patrons of the Future City Athletic Club, was the first to be fought at 125 pounds.

The bout was at 125 pounds, and for a boxer of this weight, Monterey is a terrific fighter. He measured the man for the first minute of the bout while Cole was heading down from a right blow, then he right hand shot to the jaw, and Cole went down for the count of nine.

This was repeated a moment later, while Billy Cole jumped to his feet at the right. Monterey stepped in quickly, again right hand to the jaw, and Cole went down for good. I saw that the count was ten, and called on his seconds to take care of him.

Clancy Wins Handily.

In the last bout of the evening, eight rounds at 135 pounds, "Bud" Clancy's aggressiveness was too much for Dick Holman of Red Bud, Ill. Clancy started on a whirlwind drive and availed his gloves of boxing and judgment of his knowledge as to when to stop a fight.

Clancy was so much too much for Holman that he was forced to stop the fight in the first round. Clancy's right hand was the only one that counted, and he landed it with a bang.

WATT'S COLUMN

The Topsy Turvy Championship.

OLD MAN DOPE, who scornfully refused the post of traffic officer along Pennant Road, is unfurling a broad grin over his map every time he lifts his head out of the statistics, pinches himself and finds that he's still alive and able to use more midnight kilowatts.

"The party who tries to place the machines in this year's races will surely excite no interest among life insurance solicitors. As a rule he looks like a total loss. The way those crazy machines are being run makes it certain they can't follow directions laid down for them.

There's that Chauffeur Hugh Jennings; he's running wild now. Then there is that Philadelphia National outfit, which Hugh Fullerton ordered to report last, or thereabouts—it's tin-canning LUTY IN FRONT of the bench. George Stallings taught me a lesson, I'm off to the bomb proof for life.

A New Triple Entente.

NORING into the figures, Old Man Dope found out why the Tigers are raising such a dust along the highway to the flag. It's that new triple entente, Cobb, Crawford and Veatch.

How would you like to be a pitcher, with an early spring arm, facing a triple alliance of this sort? The worst of it is, this battery explodes in succession, so that the poor hurler who finds men on base when this trio comes up, is practically doomed.

AB. H. Pct.

Cobb 23 10 .434

Crawford 24 15 .441

Veatch 26 10 .485

How would you like to be a pitcher, with an early spring arm, facing a triple alliance of this sort? The worst of it is, this battery explodes in succession, so that the poor hurler who finds men on base when this trio comes up, is practically doomed.

Lajoie Coming Strong.

AFTER starting the season wretchedly, falling to get a hit in the first three games, Larry Lajoie is finding his batting lenses. In the last three games he has been hitting the ball at the rate of 800 Lajoie, in the last 12 times at bat, has made six hits.

Eddie Collins will not be missed so very much if the Frenchman can continue his comeback.

Those Federal Homers.

PRESIDENT LLOYD RICKART of the St. Louis Federals stood beside Old Dope yesterday afternoon, as the seventh home run in the first game was hoisted over the right field screen.

Six of these home runs have been made by Chicago hitters, and only one of the number has been made by a right-handed hitter.

"Your right fence is too close, Mr. Rickart," suggested Dope. "Not on your life. If you'll remain after the game I'll have it measured and show you. In the meantime I'll tell you reliably that the distance along the right foul line from home plate to the right field fence is 225 feet.

Legal Limit Exceeded.

"Nor is our distance short by comparison. Mr. Hedges' right fence is 20 feet from home plate, a difference of 10 feet. But our fence, and the high screen on top of it, make it certain that a ball hit over them for a home run would be in Sportsman's Park, drop into the top seats of his bleachers. The Fed park is not an easy home-run park, owing to any short right field.

"Well, what's the answer? How do you explain so many homers in such a short time, and all to the same place?"

The "Lively Ball" Alibi.

I HAVE been watching the ball. I have noticed how quickly it gets to the infielders, and how easily field men are able to make out.

"It's my opinion that a shipment of live balls has been sent to us. These are tightly wound and have far greater traveling power than the muffled balls.

"With a lively ball, left-handed batters have an exceptional chance to loft it over the screen. With a muffled ball, the chance is nil.

BASEBALL BRIEFS.

Clarence "Pants" Rowland's White Sox season in the major leagues was a disappointment. He was the first to be traded, and he was the first to be traded.

At present Pat Moran's Phillies are showing signs of life. They are the first to be traded, and he was the first to be traded.

The Athletics mailed Jack Warhop for 12 years. He was the first to be traded, and he was the first to be traded.

George Foster, who last season ranked eighth in the batting averages, was the first to be traded, and he was the first to be traded.

Manager Leo Mays of the Brooklyn's is still hitting. Yesterday he cracked out three hits in four attempts. The winning streak of his team, though, was stopped by Bush.

RESOLUTE AND VANTIE TO COMPETE THIS SEASON

NEW YORK, April 21.—The yacht Race and Regatta Association has announced that the America's Cup will be sailed in competition this summer, and is being sailed in special regatta and is being sailed in special regatta.

Yachting men consider it doubtful whether there will be a race for the America's Cup this year. The reason is that the yacht race is too busy aiding sufferers in Serbia to pay attention to yachting.

There is in use as a hospital ship and the Shamrock IV is hailed in Brooklyn.

The Shamrock was built by Harlan and Wolff, a syndicate of New York financiers, club members and sportsmen, and was built by Lawley and Alexander & Cochran.

Leo Kelly Will Box Pierson at Sullivan's Club

Principals in Recent Slugging Affair Rematched for Next Tuesday.

It was announced that Leo Kelly of this city and Charlie Pierson of Kansas City have been rematched and will appear in the main event on next Tuesday night.

These two boxed an eight-round draw on April 4. At that time neither had been given much notice, and they were very much out of condition, but they put up one of the most interesting battles witnessed at the club during the season.

For their bout on next Tuesday night, they have been given ample notice and should be able to enter the ring in better condition than before.

War Eagle Now a Bird of Peace.

THAT old war eagle of the soccer world, Tom Cahill, who now gets off at that provincial tank station, New York, has been converted into a dove of peace—Mustapha and other magicians please notice. Most of us would have thought it far easier to convert a battleship into a rowboat.

Cahill, who is the power behind the throne in the National Football Association, is in St. Louis looking over the ruins left by the recently concluded soccer war.

The organized forces won here, finally, and next season will see only one four-club professional league doing business. Cahill is looking over the field to see what the casualties were. Incidentally, he's on a still hunt for a President of the National Football Association and Winston Barker of this city is one of those favorably mentioned.

A Title Look-in, Now.

THE coming here of football peace means that St. Louis will be eligible to representation in the contest for the National Championship. War prevented the local eleven from taking part, this season. The National Championship this year has resolved itself down to an issue between two elements: The Brooklyn Colites and the Bethlehem (Pa.) steel workers. The contest will be played May 1, on the Lehigh University campus, at Bethlehem, Pa. The teams have been guaranteed $750 by the merchants of the city.

The championship match is the climax of the competition of 32 eleven which entered for the honor. This is more than double the number of teams that competed in the National trophy contest in 1914.

NELSON'S POLICIES STILL TO CONTROL KANSAS CITY STAR

Widow and Daughter Announce
There Will Be No Change in Paper's Course.

ESTATE IS $10,000,000

Bulk Is Finally to Pass Into
Hands of Trustees for Art
Works for Public Benefit.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 21.—The Kansas City Star prints today a statement signed by Mrs. Ida H. Nelson and Mrs. Laura Nelson Kirkwood, who were named as trustees of the Nelson estate for life by the late editor's will, saying:

"Mr. Nelson never regarded his newspaper as a commercial proposition. To him it was always a sacred trust.

"Those to whom his trusteeship has fallen recognize the heavy obligation which is now theirs. In meeting this responsibility and this obligation they are depending on his associates on the staff, who are in complete sympathy with his ideals, and who will have the active management of the paper.

"It is the one aim of the trustees and associates alike that his spirit shall direct the Star's policies."

The will filed yesterday provides that the widow and daughter shall take the income of the estate, but the principal is to be kept intact for the creation, after their death, of a fund, the proceeds of which, after providing for any children that may be born to Mrs. Kirkwood, are to be used for the public benefit.

Estimated at $10,000,000.
Persons close to Col. Nelson say the value of his estate may be estimated conservatively at $10,000,000, one-half of which is represented by the Kansas City Star property.

A farm of 1750 acres in Jackson County, Mo., is set aside to be a model farm for 30 years, for the instruction of neighbors in stock raising and farming. After that time the farm is to become a part of the trust estate, the will provides.

On the death of both Mrs. Nelson and Mrs. Kirkwood management of the property is to be placed in the hands of a board of trustees consisting of the presidents of the universities of Missouri and Oklahoma. The three university presidents are to be a board which will change only as changes are made by the universities. When a person ceases to be at the head of his university, he also will cease to be a member of the board.

$1,000,000 for Each Grandchild.
The university trustees are required to set aside for each of the children of Mrs. Kirkwood, if any, property "of the reasonable value of $1,000,000." The residue is to be managed for public purposes under the name of "The William Rockhill Nelson Trust."

It is provided that the net income "shall be used and expended for the purchase of works and reproductions of fine art, such as paintings, engravings, sculpture, tapestries and rare books, the purpose being to procure in this manner works of the fine arts which will contribute to the decoration and enjoyment of the public generally, but are not usually provided for by public funds."

It directs the university trustees in the purchase of works of art to select works or reproductions of the work of artists who have been dead at least 30 years at the time of purchase.

One section of the will says: "All works of fine art purchased by the university trustees shall be kept and remain at all times in Kansas City, Mo., for public exhibition in such buildings as may be provided by the public for that or similar purposes."

Newspaper to Be Sold.
Sale of the Kansas City Star is directed "if at the time when the property shall come into the hands of the university trustees the estate owns and is publishing a newspaper or newspapers. The trustees must sell the newspapers as soon as it can be done without sacrifice," not later than two years from the death of Nelson's wife and daughter. It is directed that the money derived shall be invested in real estate or interest-bearing notes on real property within the 30-mile limit, or in the bonds of Kansas City, Mo.; Kansas City, Kan.; Jackson or Wyandotte counties, school bonds of the two cities or United States bonds.

Mrs. Nelson, the widow, is given a life interest in the estate in the family home here, Oak Hall, and at her death the property is to pass to Mrs. Kirkwood. Together they may sell it, or, the will provides, it may be sold by the survivor, but if sold the money derived is to become part of the trust property. Mrs. Nelson is to receive without restriction all the personal property.

Of the income Mrs. Nelson and Mrs. Kirkwood are directed to pay monthly sums out of the income to Nelson's sisters, Miss Eva Nelson and Mrs. H. W. Bonds of Port Wayne, Ind., and to the widow of the deceased brother, Degroff Nelson, during their lifetime and to the two daughters of Degroff Nelson for 25 years. The residue of the net income of the trust estate is to be paid to Mrs. Nelson and Mrs. Kirkwood in equal shares. The will is dated April 16, 1914.

A codicil was added Oct. 9, 1914, making specific instructions as to the disposition of the Jackson County farm. Mrs. Nelson is made the executor without bond. In the codicil with regard to the model farm, Nelson directed that "no person shall, during the 30-year period, sell on said lands any spirituous, malt or vinous liquors of any kind," and that should the income from the farm be insufficient to carry on the plans, the deficit shall be paid by the trustees out of other funds in their hands."

Residents of Rock Hill District to Try to Secure for 350 Children.
Residents of the Rock Hill School District to the northwest of Clayton have been summoned to a public meeting in School No. 1 upon the Manchester road tonight to determine whether they will raise $2500 to continue the school work for the term or leave 350 children without a school to attend. The salaries of 11 teachers are due Friday and numerous other expenses, and Dr. John M. Berry, Treasurer, said today that the board is without funds.

The trouble is said to be due to delay upon the part of property owners in the district in paying taxes. A proposal will be made that the school directors sign a joint note for the amount needed and await payment when the taxes are settled.

FIGURES BY WHICH CITY WOULD AGREE ON PRICE FOR U. R.

Public Service Commission's Valuation of $37,638,667 Would Be Used in Opposing Street Railway Company's Estimate of $101,741,632.

MARKET VALUE OF SECURITIES $55,485,000

Owners of Detroit System Were Willing to Sell Out to City for Par Value of Their Bonded Debt, Which City Is to Assume.

If the city government or the people of St. Louis by initiative election should decide to buy the street railway system, the reports of the St. Louis Public Service Commission (1912) and of the United Railways Co. to the Missouri Public Service Commission, for later years, would help fix the price to be paid.

The company will set forth the following expenditures for the system to June 30, 1914, plus any made thereafter down to the date of the purchase negotiations:

Organization	$154,152.88
Right of way	183,634.15
Other land used in electric railway operations	40,774.87
Track and roadway	4,567,738.99
Electric line	1,236,683.89
Buildings, fixtures and improvements	1,850,250.08
Investment, real estate	13,640.00
Cars	3,023,567.21
Electrical equipment of cars	2,086,455.15
Miscellaneous equipment	$4,515.94
Interest and discount	222,696.55
Miscellaneous	359,681.10
Shops, tools and machinery	230,706.52
Power plant equipment	2,046,585.64
Total	$17,006,350.65

Railroad properties and securities purchased..... $4,970,390.26

Total.....$21,976,740.91

Overcapitalization Alleged. The people's negotiators will cite, in reply, the following excerpt from the report of the St. Louis Public Service Commission:

"The United Railways Co. is a typical example in its capitalization of that character of financing which must eventually result either in much hardship to the 'investor' or in the assumption by the public of heavy burdens in the way of excessive charges or inadequate service."

The total capitalization of the company in stock and in bonds assumed or issued by it is:

Capital stock (common and preferred)	$41,900,300
Bonds (assumed and issued)	$59,480,000
Total	$101,380,300

A liberal valuation as made by the commission shows the present property to have a fair value of $37,638,667.75.

The result of a comparison of the capitalization and the commission's valuation shows the company to have a capitalization in excess of the fair value of the property as fixed by the commission of $63,741,632.55.

The price to be paid by the city would be placed somewhere between the company's total capitalization and the "fair value" estimate made by the city's public service experts. The negotiators would consider not only the present replacement value of the property, to be computed down to date by the city's engineering experts, and the company's own inflated valuation, but also the public's estimate, as this is expressed in the current market price which it is willing to pay for the company's securities, representing stock title or bond mortgage claims upon its property.

Market Value of Securities. At the present moment, market values of the securities of the United Railways Co. are liberally assessed thus:

Comparative General Balance Sheet of United Railways

THE United Railways Co.'s latest "comparative general balance sheet," filed at Jefferson City, June 30, 1914, follows:
Assets.	June 30, 1913.	June 30, 1914.	Increase.	Decrease.
General expenditure	$101,636,488.50	$101,975,410.51	$ 370,122.41
Stocks owned	2,011,700.00	2,017,875.00	6,175.00
Bonds owned	1,936,000.00	2,686,000.00	750,000.00
Cash and current assets	2,045,939.87	1,646,935.75		$398,954.12
Other assets, sinking and other special funds	1,060,300.00	1,285,900.00	225,600.00
Grand total	$109,659,428.37	$110,743,771.01	$1,084,342.64
Liabilities.	June 30, 1913. <td>June 30, 1914.<td>Increase.<td>Decrease.</td></td></td>	June 30, 1914. <td>Increase.<td>Decrease.</td></td>	Increase. <td>Decrease.</td>	Decrease.
Capital stock, preferred	$ 19,986,500.00	$ 19,986,500.00
Common	24,913,800.00	24,913,800.00
Funded debt	59,480,000.00	59,480,000.00
Current liabilities	730,938.66	540,937.50		$ 189,951.16
Taxes accrued	336,832.02		$ 64,759.28
Interest accrued	982,504.13	968,550.13		$ 13,954.00
Reserves	$1,231,375.03	1,730,444.73	$500,669.70
Surplus	2,007,508.37	2,630,217.25	622,708.78
Grand total	$109,659,428.37	$110,743,771.01	$1,084,342.64

They would probably insist on getting it for a figure much nearer its replacement value, which may be figured to-day as not far from $40,000,000. The public buyer of his property to pay for similar items in the price of the property, or for the cost of losing experiments conducted therein, nor, indeed, a penny more than the current value of the property in the open market. But public utility companies are less modest.

The owners of the Detroit street railways, however, appear to be glad to sell to the city for the par value of their bonded debt, which the city is to assume and pay out of the system's earnings. The stockholders get nothing.

The following statistical information, copied from the latest yearly report by the United Railways Co. to the Missouri Public Service Commission, affords much light upon the probable course of negotiations for the purchase of the system by the city or the people. If such negotiations should begin, the United Railways Co. has a stock capitalization of $106,688,428.37, common, $24,913,800.00, preferred, $19,986,500.00, in $100 par shares, has been sold. Of the preferred, the company holds $3,000,000 in its treasury and $65,300 in its sinking fund; $15,383,500 is held by investors.

The St. Louis & Meramec River Railroad Co., reported separately, has $3,000,000 authorized capital stock, all common, of which $1,000,000 has been issued and held in its treasury.

The funded debt of the United Railways Co., and its subsidiaries, represented by bond issues which constitute a first claim upon its properties and privileges, is reported in detail thus:

Baden & St. Louis Railroad Co.—Authorized, $250,000; outstanding, none; due date, June 1, 1913; paid during last fiscal year, $250,000.

Taylor Avenue Railway Co.—Authorized, $500,000; outstanding, none; due date, June 1, 1913; paid during last fiscal year, $12,330.

BRYAN CRITICISES PEARY FOR SPEECH ON U. S. EXPANSION

Statement That "We Cannot Stand Still" Little Less Than a Crime Secretary Says.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—Secretary Bryan before criticizing Rear Admiral Peary's recent speech on possible territorial expansion of the United States wrote the Admiral for verification of his remarks and received an authenticated copy. Bryan's comment on the speech, as given out as the State Department, was in part as follows:

"Rear Admiral Peary, speaking at a Republican banquet in New York recently said: 'We cannot stand still. A hundred years hence we shall either be obliterated as a nation, or we shall occupy the entire North American world segment.' The advantages of free speech are so great that we are compelled to follow from an occasional abuse of the privilege by persons sufficiently prominent to secure publicity for their views. It is to be regretted, however, that a man known to the public should so much enjoy indulging his imagination as to be indifferent to the effect which his utterances may have upon this country's relations with other nations."

Prediction Nearly a Crime. "Admiral Peary does not, of course, claim to be inspired—he is simply expressing his private opinion—but his name, unfortunately, gives wings to his words. He fixes 100 years as the period during which it will be necessary for this Government to secure control of the Continent, or disappear. Such a prediction from an obscure man would be foolish; from one in his position, it is little less than a crime. His prediction is based on the assumption which has been demonstrated to be false—namely, that a nation must constantly expand or go into decay."

"It has been a century since the boundary line between the United States and Canada was established, and yet both countries are more prosperous today than they were a hundred years ago. This country shares the larger part of North America with several Spanish-speaking republics, and there is no reason why there should be any dispute between them in a century or in many centuries. The idea that a nation can grow only geographically is as un-American as it is untrue."

Peary Refuses to Reply. Admiral Peary, on reading the above comment, declined to comment on it, but pointed out that he first presented the idea "that the entire North American continent was to be the eventual destiny of the United States" in a public address in London in November, 1907, when he said:

"The attainment of the North Pole is particularly an object for American pride and patriotism. The North American continent is our home, our natural, ultimate destiny. Its bounds are the isthmus and the pole. We are negotiating for the isthmus (the Hay-Bunau-Varilla treaty was signed Nov. 18, 1903). We must find and mark the pole."

PACKEY M'FARLAND CHASED OUT OF OFFICE BY WOMAN

Wife of Joliet City Editor Strikes Pugilist in Face With Folded Paper. When He Calls to Make Protest.

JOLIET, Ill., April 21.—Packey McFarland, welterweight pugilist of Chicago and Joliet, was attacked by Mrs. Robert M. Wilson, wife of the city editor, in the office of the Daily News last night, when he protested against the alleged posting of a bulletin, asserting that he had lost $5000 because of the change to the commission form of government.

McFarland entered the editorial rooms of the News and was met by Mrs. Wilson, who was assisting her husband with election extras. He said a man had told him that the newspaper had posted a bulletin asserting that the new form of government had caused him to lose $5000 in the brewery business. In whose he was interested. Mrs. Wilson told him that no such bulletin had been posted and ordered him from the office.

McFarland protested further and Mrs. Wilson struck him across the face with a folded newspaper which she held. Yielding to this power of the press, the pugilist backed out the door, saying he would give the woman the newspaper decision.

SON-IN-LAW SUES FOR $15,000

He Charges Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Boits With Neglect.

Mrs. William P. Boits of 556 Michigan avenue, who was named with her husband as a defendant in the $15,000 damage suit of her son-in-law, Alfred Raacke Jr., charging alienation of Mr. Raacke's affections, told the Post-Dispatch reporter today that Raacke's allegation were unfounded. Mrs. Raacke, who now lives with the parents, was unwilling to be seen.

Boits is president of the Commercial Foundry Co. Raacke is a shipyard clerk for a shoe company. He married Boits' daughter last June. In this suit he alleged that her parents, in December, began trying to separate them, and that they brought about the separation March 23 and kept Mrs. Raacke from returning to him. He was barred from his home which was over the parents' residence, he said, and his clothing was handed out to him.

ALDERMEN FAIL TO END DISPUTE OVER CLERKSHIP

Question of Electing Maurice J. Gordon to Come up Again Today.

The Board of Aldermen's first meeting yesterday was attended by a crowd that taxed the capacity of the former house of Delegates chamber. The selection of an Assistant Clerk, for which City Committeeman Maurice J. Gordon is a candidate, was postponed until today's meeting after the members failed to reach an agreement in a caucus that lasted until after the announced hour of the regular meeting, 4 p. m.

Mayor Kiel called the Aldermen to order and invited Alderman John F. Renick of the Fifteenth Ward to act as temporary Clerk. The crowd and the Mayor waited for several minutes for Renick to step forward. It was discovered that Renick and about 30 other members were caucusing on jobs in an anteroom and they had to be summoned to the meeting. The crowd was so thick about the members' desks that the presiding official could not tell whether the Aldermen were at their desks.

Julius Haller Installed. Julius Haller was installed as Vice President of the board, to act in the place of A. H. Frederick, whose resignation was accepted yesterday by vote of the Aldermen. Haller will perform the duties of the President, even acting as a member of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, but will not receive the $5000 annual salary of the office. Haller will be paid $1800 as an Alderman representing the Twenty-fourth Ward.

Clarence G. Fischer, a former Deputy in the Circuit Clerk's office was elected Clerk of the board at a salary of $4000. William Matthews, a negro, was made Sergeant-at-Arms, at $1500 a year. The first act of Haller was to carry out the agreement reached in caucus at the American Hotel Monday by appointing Herman Schworn page and William Graves, a negro, janitor. Schworn will receive $900 a year and Graves $750.

The board will fill the position of stenographer, which pays $1500 a year, until it selects an assistant clerk at $2000. Daniel A. Corbett, former assistant clerk of the House of Delegates, is favored for the post of stenographer, but is opposed for the position of assistant clerk by those who have been pledged to Gordon. If Gordon is chosen assistant, Corbett will be made stenographer.

The budget bill was introduced yesterday and the board must hold daily sessions until an appropriation measure is enacted. It will meet today at 4 p. m. It is reported that Alderman Luke E. Hart of the Twenty-eighth Ward will be made chairman of the Ways and Means Committee and will have charge of the budget hearings, in that capacity. Hart, if appointed, will act in the absence of Vice President Haller and will be acting Mayor in the absence of both Mayor Kiel and Haller.

WOMAN ARRESTED AT PARIS, ILL., FOR BUYING OF VOTES

She and Politician Are Released on Bond and Hearing Is Set for Next Tuesday.

PARIS, Ill., April 21.—H. Clay Moss and Mrs. Hattie O'Neill, who were arrested here last night on the charge of buying votes at the city election yesterday, were released on bond today. Hearing of their cases was set for next Tuesday before Justice V. V. Hardin.

Vigorous denial of the charge was made today by both Moss and Mrs. O'Neill, who said they do not know Miss Flora Dawson and Mrs. Hattie Franklin, who charge they were paid $5 each for voting. No other arrests had been made.

A warrant was also issued for a woman well-known in society, but by order of State's Attorney W. N. Hickman was not served.

The warrants for the arrest of several officials were made out at the office of former Congressman Frank T. O'Hair after the State's Attorney had refused to issue them.

Sheriff McAllister declared last evening that more arrests would be made. It developed that Moss yesterday had been called as a member of the Federal grand jury, which meets at East St. Louis in June, to take up the election corruption of last November.

At the election the commission form of government ticket, headed by Dr. Hoff, was elected by a big plurality.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel. Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years, and an eminent old-time chemist, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid liver.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping in the "bonyon" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally.

If you have a "dark brown mouth" now and then—a bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver and are constipated, you'll find quick, sure and only pleasant results from one or two little Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take one or two every night just to keep right. Try them. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists. The Olive Tablet Company, Columbus, O.

Blowing Up the Scenery

All the regular scenery of California was there before you were born—and before anybody else was born. It was dropped there before things got settled. But Universal City is new. It's a moving picture city full of actors and actresses, savage animals that haven't been tamed, railroads of our own, flying machines, cowboys, Indians, mountains, canyons, crevices, soldiers, meadows and Billy Ritchie—all engaged in making moving pictures for the UNIVERSAL.

Some days we blow the scenery up. Some days we smash locomotives and hold an earthquake. We deal in floods, burning buildings, heroic rescues and emotional yarns. It's beautiful out there and we'd like to have you in on all these celebrations. Come awn out and bring the family. You'll see something you can't see any place else in the world. UNIVERSAL CITY can't be imagined. It's a lot to be seen. It's only a few moments from Los Angeles and Los Angeles is on the direct line of the Santa Fe.

Accessories After the Fact.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Noticing your condemnation of concealment by banks, particularly concealment by Mechanics-American Bank, of offenses against the law, because of what has been called business ethics, I wish to call attention to section 4399 of Revised Statutes of Missouri, 1909.

This section provides that "every person not standing in the relation of husband or wife, parent or grandparent, child or grandchild, brother or sister, by consanguinity or affinity, who shall be convicted of having concealed any offender after the commission of any felony, or of having given to such offender any other aid, knowing that he has committed a felony, with the intent and in order that he may escape or avoid arrest, trial, conviction, punishment, and no other, shall be deemed an accessory after the fact, and upon conviction shall be punished," etc.

You will observe that had the Mechanics-American Bank exposed Frederick at the time of this swindle some six years ago lots of trouble would have been avoided.

"The ethics" (God save the mark), which governed that bank's conduct, however, the ruling principle at this time, not only so far as banks, but also so far as others who are similarly swindled, are concerned. But this statute, if it is a part of our law ought to be observed as religiously as any law, and now ought to be an absolute time to inculcate the doctrine upon the people.

The business of investing in real estate securities has received a serious setback and a clean-up along the whole line is urgent. It is as much the duty of the grand jury to inquire into hidden crime, as to find indictments against that which has come to the surface. Why should it not summons banks and money lenders before it to ascertain what they may know of fraudulent paper offered to or purchased by them? They might put themselves upon their privilege against self-criticism or they might be able to tell of things they knew were concealed by others.

It is time that people should know whether banks invoke business ethics to protect swindlers or whether they will refuse to be accessories after the fact.

LAWYER.

A Chronic Pest.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
When Charles Dickens visited this country in 1842 he entered a Western town where there was a "smart" man. The inhabitants complained of his unscrupulous character. When Dickens suggested that they put him on a rail and tote him out of town they demurred. And yet it would be a better ridance method than legal procedure, apparently.

SIDNEY AVERILL.

An Appeal for Work.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
I am impelled to write you because for the time being, at least, I am discouraged, disheartened and desperate after a fruitless search for work in every way I could think of. I have answered over 40 advertisements for work I can do, and work I am willing to do, which means anything some of these ads to which I have replied were in the Post-Dispatch, too. I have visited as many as 80 places in one day without so much as a chance at a job. In two days I visited 86 places, asking for work of any kind. All are preaching "no business." "Sorry, but I cannot do anything for you."

I have a family (wife and four children) and I must keep them. My oldest girl (7) needs fresh air and nourishing food, as she has been under a specialist this winter for nervousness. I am a high school graduate, of good family and intelligent and capable. Can do anything around an office, am a telegraph operator also, though I have not worked at this work for several years. I would appreciate your publishing this in the hope that some business man may see it and give me an opportunity to earn for my family what my duty as a husband requires me to provide for them.

I would be willing to leave the State, go most anywhere, take a traveling job or do anything. I can sell goods, could do excellent work as a clerk in some small hotel in the country, or most anything requiring intelligence, courtesy and willingness.

I fenced off a long while before writing to the "agency column," so to speak, but I've got to the point where worry has my brain in a muddle and I realize that I am unable to do any constructive thinking. I wish you would not use my name when (if) you publish this, so I will sign a name—de-plume and my real name also. Hoping some good may result, I am, Yours sincerely,
"HOMER SIN TRABAJO."

GERMANY'S AMAZING ADMISION.

It is significant that just as the German Government assumes responsibility for Ambassador von Bernstorff's impertinent criticism of American neutrality in permitting the sale of war munitions to the allies the news comes that a carload of American machine guns destined for Germany were confiscated in Switzerland.

The incident serves to emphasize the lack of principle in the German demand that the United States lay an embargo on arms and ammunition. It is based solely on the advantage that the Germans as to the legality and propriety and sound principle of trade between belligerents and neutrals in war munitions. We have heard of no remorse on the part of German statesmen or German gun and powder makers on account of the vast stores of munitions sold to belligerents by Germany during a number of wars. Neither the German Government nor the German manufacturers have confessed that they were responsible through trade in arms either for these wars or their prolongation.

In effect, Germany asks that the United States reverse the law and the custom concerning trade in munitions in order that she may be assured so great an advantage over her adversaries that she will be able to defeat them speedily. She is trying to force the United States to cut off a traditional and recognized right of friendly nations in order that Germany may enjoy a tremendous and invaluable advantage over them. We are asked to make enemies of our friends for the benefit of Germany.

Isn't it rather puerile in a great, powerful nation to insist that her adversaries be deprived of the opportunity to obtain arms and ammunition in order that she may whip them—that they be delivered unarmed into her hands? Isn't it even more foolish to blame America because the allies are using American bullets purchased with their money on German soldiers? If Germany was not able to defeat the allies with her abundant war resources she should not have gone to war. If she objects to the killing of her soldiers she can keep them out of the way of the bullets. She doesn't want us to bring about peace regardless of the outcome, but to bring about peace through German victory.

Principle lies in the other direction, supporting trade in war munitions. Not only is freedom of trade involved, but the welfare of mankind is profoundly concerned in the opportunity of nations to obtain the means of defense against aggression. It would be a sad day for liberty and justice should the strong nations by international law, agreement or understanding prohibit the sale of arms and ammunition by neutrals to belligerents. It would mean that so long as there is one powerful, armed, prepared nation ready and willing to use its might for aggression every nation would have to be armed and prepared for defense; every nation would have to maintain at all times gun and powder plants to the limit of its resources.

Weak and struggling peoples, unready for war, would be at the mercy of strong, prepared, aggressive nations. When the latter cease their dreams of empire and agree not to seize the property of, invade or crush their weaker neighbors, the question of trade in munitions of war will settle itself. Justice, not the will of the powerful, will then rule. The war factories will go to pot.

Under present conditions the object of the antimunition campaign is not peace with justice, but advantage for one side at any cost of trouble for the United States.

UTILITY COMPANY ABBEYAGE.

Those jitney drivers who lure you into their cars in the expectation that the fare is 5 cents and then collect 50 cents at the end of the ride must think of incorporating and issuing 10 times more stock than they swear they ought to pay taxes on.

A CONVICT WHO MADE GOOD.

Gov. Dunne has just recommended the immediate release from the Pontiac, Ill., reformatory of a man who has made good. This man escaped from the reformatory nine years ago, and from that time has shown honesty, ambition and thrift. He has worked his way from the bottom in the cleaning and dyeing business to a point where he was able to establish a business of his own with capital of his own saving. He has become, also, the head of a model home, with a wife and two beautiful little girls.

In his recommendation the Governor says: "In the interest of justice to this man and his family, in my judgment he should be released and be permitted to continue to support his wife and children honestly and manfully, and not lose the business interests which his thrift and right living have won for him." Theoretically the object of all prisons and reformatories is the protection of society and the reformation of wrongdoers. If a criminal cannot be reformed, society is protected by his continued imprisonment. If he is reformed, society is protected by the reformation itself, and the man need no longer be confined.

FRANKING GRAFT MADE RESPECTABLE.

A late extension of the postal franking privilege is possibly the greatest ever made. That will depend on the use hereafter made of it.

As a matter of fact, every man, woman and child in the United States is given the free use of the mails under certain highly interesting conditions. One of these conditions is that a person availing himself of the privilege must have work which will provide somebody with a job. A condition applying both to those who want a job and those who have a job to bestow is that a designated form of blank provided free by the Government shall be used.

For this enlargement of the free use of the mails to include the whole public, as well as Congressmen and Federal officers, is a part of the facilities of the new Federal Employment Bureau about which we have heard so much, but of whose practical workings we know so little.

The immigration inspectors, whose duties almost disappeared with the opening of the war, have been transformed into employment agents. Applications for jobs or offers of jobs, written on the stationery the Government furnishes, will be carried free of charge to the chief office of each of the 18 immigration districts into which the country is divided. There record is made of the names and other data and the work of bringing together the man who wants a job and the man who offers a job is actively undertaken.

The old disreputable franking graft, formerly the exclusive privilege of the few, has been invested with respectability and placed as a helpful function at the service of the many, especially the many who are most in need of help. Has there been anything recently more eloquently expressive of existing tendencies under a Government of the people?

"AMERICA FIRST."

In two words, "America First," President Wilson defined not only the one great duty of the Government of the United States at this time, but the one great duty of the people of the United States. "Let us think of America before we think of Europe." It was time that somebody who could speak with authority gave that word of advice and of warning to the clamorous champions of the European belligerents.

The President made his appeal in no spirit of sordid self-interest. He did not ask Americans to think of Americans first because there would be money in it. He did not ask them to be neutral through "a petty desire to keep out of trouble." It was a plea directed toward the higher ethical interests of the United States in the councils of mankind.

Measured by the test of "America first," most of the disputed issues of this war readily and easily solve themselves so far as this country is concerned. There can be no violent clash of opinion between the friends of Germany and the friends of Great Britain and France when that test is intelligently applied.

The loftiest ideal of American citizenship at this time cannot be described better than in the President's words—"Not the talkative man, not the partisan, not the man who remembers first that he is a Republican or a Democrat, or that his parents were German or English, but who remembers first that the whole destiny of modern affairs centers upon his being an American first of all."

The American who remembers that has remembered everything.

THE NEW HEALTH BILLS.

We must have clean bread and clean towels. If there are unreasonable provisions in the two bills providing for these health safeguards, the bills can be sent back for amendment. Clean pastry is as desirable as clean bread. Some barber shops are already equipped with individual towels. No office or other place where numbers of men and women are employed should be exempt from health conservation laws.

It is a part of the general fight against disease. Some inconvenience and some expense must be incurred in that fight, but it will more than pay. If the bills must be amended, the amendments must be in line with the requirements of hygiene, so that all danger of infection from filth diseases may be eliminated.

SUNSHINE IN THE BUSINESS WORLD.

To exaggerate the significance of the current stock market activity would be easy, especially for those who, because of political or other reasons, might be inclined to magnify any cause that seemed to justify an optimistic future outlook. The public has been reluctant in recent years to accept the speculative markets as a necessarily reliable index of the condition of legitimate business.

But the trading in securities, which has resulted in the transfer of nearly 1,500,000 shares on a single day within the last week, is but one indication of improvement in trading of all kinds. And this one indication, it may be added, comes belatedly, after the signs of betterment had been recorded in many other fields.

Wheat at $1.60 a bushel and more and other grains at proportionate prices alone mean enormous accessions of wealth to a country in which agriculture is still, and for a long time will remain, the chief industry. Within a few months wealth in cotton has almost tripled by the advance in the price of that staple. The riches pouring into America solely through the sale of farm products abroad would inevitably have a stimulating influence.

But prosperity has a much broader basis than even this. Bookings of steel orders for export have doubled since Jan. 1. Since Feb. 1 we have been exporting three times as many cotton fabrics as in 1914. Our woolen exports have quadrupled.

At any rate, business everywhere is justified in proceeding on the assumption that the storm has passed. America has rarely had conditions as favorable as those certain to control for many months to come.

THE OPEN SEASON FOR PIANOS.

Now that the parlor windows are open up and down both sides of the street, we are almost moved to regret portents like these—right in our own paper where we conscientiously strive always to elevate the tone of things:

RAJTIME playing taught in 20 lessons; book mailed free. Christensen, 2000½ E. Grand.
RAJTIME piano playing guaranteed in 18 lessons; book sent free. Ollendorf School, 2333 Olive st.
RAJTIME or vaudeville piano playing guaranteed in 20 lessons; book mailed free. Christensen School, Odeon Bldg.; branch, Virginia and Meramec.

Yet we would be the last to put the soft pedal on joy expressed in synecopation, even haltingly and inharmoniously. A philosopher, none other than the late Mr. Browning, observed that joy was partly pain anyhow. Let us make the best of it. For the benefit of everybody we call attention to these safety first invitations, also found in our "Musical" classification:

FIRST-CLASS tuning and repairing piano and players; $1.50 tuning; 25 years' experience. H. Kautz, 2029 S. Jefferson; Sidney 1707E. Victor 257E.
$1.00—EXPERT piano tuning, first-class repairing of piano and player-pianos; reasonable; all work guaranteed. M. Feldman, 2718 Park. Phone, Grand 3500. Victor 461.

There is no law or ordinance requiring pianos to be in tune, nor do we propose one; but on broadly humanitarian grounds intimately related to public health we crave this small boon from virtuosity.

THE RIGHT TO EXIST.

THE Turks say they are fighting for the right to exist, and one cannot be without sympathy for them in that effort. It is not asking much, and one would despise them for ceasing to exist without having made some resistance. They have our permission to go to it as best they are able, and if they fail to exist in the end we shall at least honor them for having sold their existence for what it is worth. We observe in the Turks an agreeable indisposition to justify themselves in war upon any old elemental grounds. They are not fighting for Moslem culture. They are not making a last stand for Oriental civilization. They are simply fighting for their existence—the right to live and love—to raise dates and figs—to worship Allah and to be by Allah forgiven. One probably could not beat it for Turkey. It is not exactly as we live here—but the Turk is fighting for purely local reasons, and there is no grave danger that he will inflict his philosophy on us if he wins. So far as we are concerned, his petition to continue dwelling under his own vine and fig tree is granted, albeit he files it with the sword. It would seem not to make much difference whether one were dead or alive in Turkey—but the Turk is entitled to his choice. They are his lands—not our own. We wish him no worse luck than his cause deserves. It is absolutely delightful to discover how neutral one can be with respect to the Turks. Without any great feeling in the matter, they inspire none in us.

ONE OF THE ANNALS OF COTTON SCHULTZ.

Cotton Schultz met with a queer accident the latter part of last week. He got gasoline on his overalls and concluded he would burn it off. He touched it with a match and in an instant he was aflame. George Still, who was near, smothered the flame out with a blanket. It was a narrow escape for his life. The burns on his hands and arms were painful, but not serious. Cotton's overalls were ruined and his sweater badly damaged.—Walker (Mo.) Herald.

MONTGOMERY CITY DECLARES HERSELF.

A $20,000 Fantasy

The story of the man with $500 who "bucks" the bank at Monte Carlo, and then wakes up.

By Frank Filsen.

CHILDE strode out of the casino at Monte Carlo exultantly, conscious that a thousand eyes were watching him with envy. Two hours before he had entered with 500 francs in his pocket, the only money he possessed in the world. He had broken the bank—he had made a hundred thousand francs, or $20,000 in American money. He had achieved a record, for he had thrice backed winning numbers in a single sitting.

He had never had more than $500 in his life. He planned his future as he strode through the palm gardens. He would leave Monte Carlo the following morning. He would go home, buy an estate, settle down, marry, perhaps—

"Pardon, monsieur!"

The figure lurched against him drunkenly. As Childe stepped aside another man sprang at him from the shrubbery. He struck clumsily, however. Childe's fist shot out. The man, struck squarely upon the jaw, collapsed upon the ground. His companion took to his heels. Childe, with a hasty glance at the prostrate ruffian, made his way hastily back to his hotel, a little place run by a scoundrelly Levantine, but the best that Childe had been able to afford.

He did not like the idea of spending another night there, but no matter. In the morning he would be gone. Assuming himself that his winnings were intact, he entered, ascended the stairs, and flung himself down on his bed, fully dressed.

An hour later he was aroused by a knocking at the door. He thrust his head out cautiously. The landlord and two gendarmes stood in the passage. "A little error, doubtless, monsieur," muttered the landlord.

"Monsieur Childe?" inquired the gendarmes.

"Well, gentlemen?"

"You are under arrest."

A pair of revolvers simultaneously covered him. Childe shrugged his shoulders.

"What is the charge?"

"The sergeant will explain that, monsieur."

Accused of Murder.

ACCOMPANIED by the men, Childe descended the stairs, crossed the deserted road, and, after many turns, found himself outside a disreputable station house. Inside was an official at a desk, yawning.

"This is the murderer," announced one of the gendarmes.

"What?" cried Childe.

"You are accused of the murder of a citizen of Monaco in the Palm Gardens," explained the sergeant. "It just happens that his winnings were intact, and he received an acknowledgment."

"But the fellow attacked me!"

Childe began.

"Doubtless monsieur will convince the court as to that," explained the sergeant.

Ten minutes later Childe, his money gone, with a receipt in his pocket as sole security for it, was pacing his narrow cell gloomily. However, he felt sure that on the following day he would be able to explain to the court and be acquitted. He cursed Monte Carlo with all his heart.

The next morning a lawyer came to see him—an American. Childe's heart leaped up. Immediately he began to expound the situation. However, the lawyer took a gloomy view of the case.

"We have no preliminary process here," he told him. "Your case will come up at the next session, in a month's time. It is difficult to persuade a native court, you know, in case of assault, and unfortunately the fellow, in falling, struck the base of his skull and received a concussion which brought about death within a few minutes. If I were you I would ask to see Signor Martino."

"Who is Signor Martino?" asked Childe.

"Our Consul, Italian gentleman, but very faithful, and he'll do all he can to have your case brought before the State Department."

"All right," said Childe.

He sees the Roll of Bills.

HAT afternoon Signor Martino, very bland, unctuous and affable, appeared. He listened to Childe's story with profound regret. Of course he would do his best, but—

"The 'but' meant a month of waiting. The only consolation which the prisoner found was that his counsel felt sure he would be acquitted. And, in fact, when the day of the trial arrived, Childe felt more than recompensed for his journey in the thought that the following day would see him safe aboard a Mediterranean steamship with his money in his pocket.

The sergeant listened sympathetically and permitted him to look at his roll of bills in a safe behind the desk.

"Gosh! should see you a free man," the gendarmes led him under a covered way into the courtroom. It was a little place, dingier than the station house, and the judge upon the bench appeared an untrustworthy person, in Childe's view. He saw the prosecutor, a gaunt man looking like a bandit, with unpleasant nodding of the head.

The witness, consisting of the second ruffian, and his wife and child (female) of the dead man, who screamed for justice, did not add to Childe's comfort. Worse still, his Consul, Signor Martino, put in an appearance only when the case for the defense began.

The proceedings lasted two hours. The judge, without summing up, pronounced a verdict of guilty. Childe was sentenced to be guillotined the following month.

brought out 500 francs, all he had in the world.

"Why—I must have gone to sleep in the garden," he muttered, turning away.

He walked rapidly into the town. At the head of the wharf, where the steamship office stood, he paused and thought.

"I'm mighty glad I saved this to get home instead of plunging at the Casino," he said cheerfully.

Pop's Mutual Motor

By Alma Woodward.

"TELL you there's a new law," reiterated Ma. "They don't even allow you the ten minutes they used to give you. If it is, they fine you any way."

"Don't tell me," blustered Pop. "That there's a law in this town that can't be anathematized with maxims! I'll bet you I can leave my car anywhere without anything happening to it for 10—yes, 20—minutes—an hour if necessary. Why over in Kansas City—"

"Kansas City," scoffed Ma, closing that branch of the argument.

"All right—you're on. I don't suppose you are impetuous to proof."

My car out this afternoon and go shopping in it all alone. I'll stop at haberdashers, shoe stores, barbers—I'll even go and buy you a box of candy to clinch it. And what's more, I'll phone you from each place, just to show you that I'm all straight."

At 4:15 the phone rang.

"I am just coming out of Tony's where I have had a shave, a haircut, electric massage, manicure and shine. My car is still at the curb, panting for my return. Good-by."

At 4:15 there was another silvery tinkle.

I have purchased a pair of patent leathers with brown suede uppers," was the evidence offered. "The clerk says I have an aristocratic foot."

The piano now being open, Ma, strummed, "I Didn't Raise My Car To Be An Asset."

"Someone on the phone for you, Ma'am."

"I have bought a dozen sport collars, six pairs of Tipperary socks and four crepe de chine ties of ardent shades. I can hear the syncopated breathing of my chauffeur where I'm phoning, so now going over on Broadway to buy your candy. I will be home in a half hour, or less."

At 5:15 the phone rang again.

"Say, Laura, what's the name of that chap? Is it Lawrence or Lerner or Larned?"

My Wife's Husband

By Dale Drummond.

Chapter XX.

GEORGE, Flora and Lucius Hemming are going to Chicago for a week's outing, to shop and have a good time. They have invited me to be their guest, and I have accepted. I shall take John along with me, leave him with mother while I am with the Hemmings and then visit her a few days myself before I come home," Jane remarked casually.

Jane's mother had lately moved into a suburb of Chicago and had long been urging another visit.

"But Jane, I do not wish you to accept such an invitation from Hemming. Such a trip is very expensive, and I certainly do not choose my wife to be under obligations to another man to that extent."

"I am sorry you feel that way about it, but, as I told you, I have already accepted."

"Isn't it enough that I ask you not to go?"

Jane threw her head back and laughed, a long ringing laugh, that in some way angered me intensely.

"Why should your asking me not to go make any difference in my plans?" she asked. "Do you ever take me anywhere yourself? Have you offered me anything else in place of the delightful trip my friends have been so kind as to offer me?"

"You know I dislike Lucius Hemming intensely; yet you plan to be his guest against my expressed desire. I would offer you something else in place of the trip were it possible for me to do so; but I can afford neither the time nor the money necessary just at present."

"No, nor at any other time. If I waited for you I should wait until I was so old I had no desire to go anywhere."

"So you intend to go with Lucius Hemming?"

"Now we are getting at the real reason. Because you happen to dislike me—without any reason—I am to give up something that will give me intense pleasure, something that will break this awful maddening monotony; and at the same time you offer me nothing in its place. No, George, I won't do it! I shall go."

"If it were anyone else?"

"What have you against Lucius Hemming? He has been kindness itself to me—both of them have," she added, as an afterthought.

"Oh, I have nothing particular against the man. I simply do not like him and don't trust him," I replied weakly.

Again Jane laughed.

"So, because of such a reason as that, I am to deny myself, and I am to give up something that will give me intense pleasure, something that will break this awful maddening monotony; and at the same time you offer me nothing in its place. No, George, I won't do it! I shall go."

"If it were anyone else?"

The Jarr Family

Written for the Post-Dispatch
By Roy L. McCordell.

Mrs. Jarr Tells Her Husband
Some News; He Has No Idea
What It's All About.

HAVING read, in feminine fashion, first the divorce, then the marriages, births, deaths and engagements, and the social calendar, Mrs. Jarr was about to drop the paper without a glance at the war or other news with the remark there wasn't a thing in the papers these days, when her eye fell upon the small advertisements in the "Exchange Column."

"Why, look at this!" she cried. "Here this very first advertisement is the same number, but three of this house, and in this very street—no, two streets away—let me see! No, it's on the other side of the town; but that may be what you call a printer's mistake."

"Typographical error," replied Mr. Jarr. "When you find a needle in the soup when you are looking for a noodle, that's a typographical error."

"Well, I wouldn't be surprised if this wasn't one," said Mrs. Jarr, not heeding his lolly, "for those new people that have moved in look dark and mysterious, and I saw their wash out, and their linen was very fine and as white as snow."

"What ARE you talking about?" asked the perplexed Mr. Jarr.

"Why, you know very well what I am talking about," retorted Mrs. Jarr. "I'm talking about those people who have just moved into this apartment house, and this advertisement, which reads: 'Singing Lessons Given in Exchange for Washing and Ironing.'"

"Maybe it's a Chinaman," suggested Mr. Jarr. "I notice Chinamen hard at work all hours of the day and night when I pass their laundries, but, come to think of it, I have NEVER heard them singing."

He took the paper and grew greatly interested. "Ah, here is a man wishes to exchange an artificial limb for phonograph dance records—things are on a different footing with him now, evidently. And here is a widow who wishes to exchange a parrot for two sad iron."

But why should I care? Well, who am I to question her emotions? Anyway, it is evident the widow wishes naught around her should be gay. Perhaps the parrot is always merry and bright and the savior of the inconsiderate husband augments the anguish of her bereavement. That's why she wants to exchange the feathered jester for two sad iron."

"Don't talk foolish!" cried Mrs. Jarr. "A sad iron is an iron, and a movable wooden handle. The handle is always cool, because you slip the handle from the iron when you put the iron on the stove to heat it; but nowadays everybody is using electric irons—and they are dangerous on account of setting things on fire if you don't turn them up on end when you are called to the door by a bill collector. But I will say they do seem like nice people. They are very dark, so I suppose they are Flemish refugees, or Spanish—it's all the same, isn't it?"

"What ARE you talking about, I again must ask?" cried Mr. Jarr. "First, it's about people living near, although far away, on account of typographical errors, and then you deny that sad iron are low spirited even when a widow ad-

Fooling the Game Warden

A GAME WARDEN heard that a restaurant was serving game out of season. He disguised himself with a false beard, visited the place and ordered a pheasant.

The pheasant, delicately high, like Roquefort cheese, as all good pheasants should be, was served to the Game Warden, and he devoured it to the last morsel, at the same time inflicting severe punishment on a bottle of rare old Burgundy—for the State, of course, paid for all.

At the end of his repast, the Game Warden summoned the proprietor and said:

"I arrest you, sir, in the name of the law!"

The proprietor's mouth opened in astonishment. He swallowed two or three times, then he gasped:

"Wh—what for?"

"For serving me a pheasant out of season," said the Game Warden.

A look of relief appeared on the proprietor's face.

"Oh," he said, "that wasn't pheasant. It was crow."

Schoolboy Diplomacy.

TWO young women teachers were overheard comparing notes on their school work one day last week. One of them said:

"I left the drawer of my desk full of apples, pears and hickory nuts when I came up to the association. My children are always bringing me things."

The other teacher laughed as she said: "Mine are not so free with their gifts. One of my small boys came to me and asked:

"Would it make any difference in my grades if I brought you a great big apple every day?"

"I told him he might try it and see, and, after thoughtful pause, he asked: 'If I try it, and you find out that it ain't makin' any difference, will you tell me, so's I won't waste any more apples?'"

Sorry, Not Afraid.

LITTLE ALICE was terribly afraid of cats. One day, she had been standing on the doorstep for several minutes looking at a big, black tomcat gallivanting on the fence. Finally, she rushed into the house, looking very excited, and exclaimed:

"Muvver, I thought I'd better come in. Dat kitty was just so afraid of me I felt sorry for it, and I comed away!"

Serious Circumstances.

TWO neighbors had a long litigation about a small spring, which they both claimed. The Judge, wearied with the case, at last said:

"What is the use of making so much fuss about a little water?"

"Your Honor will see the serious nature of the case," replied one of the lawyers, "when I inform you that the parties are both milkmen."

Take the Next Car!

WHAT'S that—she jilted you, you say?

So, Bill, you got a bump? Well, love's a game we all must play. From wise man down to chump.

Yes, hurt, old boy; that's plain to see. But whistle, sing a song; An' bear in mind there soon will be Another car along.

I KNOW—you think you'd like to get A gun an' end it all, Without that gal, the world, I'll bet. Looks pretty cheap and small.

There's hundreds just as sweet as she. Dig in yer work, Bill, strong; An' bear in mind there soon will be Another car along.

Hard to Tell.

GIBBS: I tell you no man can fool my wife.

DIBBS: Then how did you get her?

Did You Ever Notice It?

WHY is it that a child studying music always stops so long to think before picking out the wrong note?

Frivolous Rejoinder.

A NUMBER of clergymen were discussing the character of a venerable woman whom they esteemed to be wise in her generation, but a young man who was present said it struck him that she showed great lack of wisdom in one respect.

"What is that, pray?" inquired an elderly gentleman.

"Why," said the young man, "she always puts out her tube to catch soft water when it is raining hard."

And silence fell upon the assembly.

Many a brainstorm is the result of a nurtured grievance.

A Professor's Kiddie.

TWO women, whose husbands are members of the Faculty of College went to call on the new professor's wife. They were shown into a room where the small daughter of the house was playing. While awaiting the appearance of their hostess one of the ladies remarked to her friend, at the same time nodding towards the little girl, "Not very p-r-e-t-t-y, is she?" spelling the word so that the child should not understand.

Instantly, before there was time for the friend to reply, came the answer from the little girl. "No, not very p-r-e-t-t-y, but awfully s-m-a-r-t."
